Clean up then pay up over old pub

DUDLEY Council could step in to clean up a pub in the town, before serving the site's owner with the bill for the works.

Residents say the boarded-up King Arthur pub, on the corner of Priory Road and Birmingham New Road, has become a stain on the area since it closed two years ago.

This week Councillor Ken Finch promised to meet council officers to discuss how approved plans for the pub, which was damaged by fire in January, could be brought forward.

He said the council was having difficulty contacting the site owner – but if it failed, would take matters into its own hands and clean up the site, passing on the bill to the owner.

Councillor Finch said: "The pub stands at the gateway to the town, but rather than welcome people in, it looks a horrible, decaying site which does no good for us."

"The building is damaged and there is mess lying around the site and on the car park – something needs to be done because it has gone on too long."

In December, then-owner Amrinder Singh was given consent to demolish the pub. Last June, Dudley Council granted permission for a 70-bedroom hotel at the site.

Prank alert for schools

POLICE are urging schools in Dudley and Sandwell to warn pupils of the dangers of a foolish prank in which youngsters on skates hitch rides on the back of buses.

The alert follows a photograph featured in the local press showing five teenagers clinging to the back of a bus on the Quarry Bank border with Cradley Heath, being towed along by their skates.

West Midlands Police Inspector Der Lambert said: "These youths are putting themselves and other road users in danger, which is an offence."

ZOO HAS SIGHTS ON HIPPODROME

by Andrew Turton

DUDLEY Zoo has revealed multi-million pound plans for a new education and conference centre on the site of the former Dudley Hippodrome.

It comes as campaigners, who are battling to save the theatre, were given hope that some of their ideas could be used at other venues in the borough. Peter Suddock, the zoo's chief executive, said the plans would incorporate a geology centre with access to the limestone Stores Cavern beneath the zoo. It would help highlight the Castle Hill's unique history as part of a prehistoric seabed, educating visitors on creatures called the trilobite, also known as the Dudley Bug.

Major £10 million plans for Castle Hill are already under way with a new visitor entrance in the pipeline to help the zoo link up better with the Black Country Living Museum and Dudley Canal Trust.

Mr Suddock said a European funding bid for the new centre would be submitted next year with a hope that work would get underway in 2015/16 and be integrated into the Castle Hill programme.

He said: "It's all come at a great time – we will be able to incorporate the plans into our new entrance and car park and the new centre will be a natural addition to the development."

Dudley Council leader Councillor David Sparks said the council was committed to working with the Friends of Dudley Hippodrome to accommodate some of their proposals, such as theatre workshops, at other venues.

Campaigners
But he added an independent survey of the campaigners' business plan for running the theatre said the council would have to subsidise the project to the tune of between £5m to £10m which he said could not be justified.

Campaign leader Geoff Fitzpatrick dismissed those figures, adding: "There has been a feeling for some time that this was likely to be the case because reports indicated but not explicitly that the building was purchased to support the council's plans for the Zoo, Black Country Living Museum and the Canal Trust and as it's closer to the Zoo it seemed logical that it would be the prime consideration."

"The ideas of a conference centre, education facility etc are all in the business plan put forward last November and if they want to build a tourist centre what about the site of the demolished Plaza Cinema or better still use the rooms in the Hippodrome."

At a full council meeting earlier this year, he said the four-way traffic junction was being undermined by a separate link road to a nearby Tesco store.

Councillor Sparks said the traffic situation at the redesigned junction as 'scandalous'.

Supermarket giant Tesco also announced it would help the council improve the junction, adding it was aware the area could become busy with traffic.

The junction was once a five-way roundabout, until it was redesigned and replaced

Castle besieged by zoo-lus

Members of Zulu Tradition prepare to take over the 11th century courtyard at Dudley Castle at the heart of Dudley Zoological Gardens.

AFRICAN warriors will be hoping to conquer Dudley Castle as Zulu dancers and musicians perform in the courtyard to mark next week's Bank Holiday.

Members of educational company, Zulu Tradition, will entertain visitors to Dudley Zoo and Castle, performing two shows on the day. They will perform traditional song and dance routines incorporating Zulu psalms, all while wearing ethnic costumes and beadwork. Performances will start with dogs enclosure – where zoo keepers will organise activities with the animals to illustrate natural behaviour like hunting and tracking – and lead to the courtyard for the performances. Company spokesman Thanda Gumede said: "Through rhythmic percussion, vibrant dance and soul-stirring harmony singing we hope to give visitors a powerful and true taste of Zulu life. Everything will be authentic from the Amaculo Esinto songs to the various genres of tradi-

Soldier's wife now in battle to keep TA

A SOLDIER'S wife leading a campaign to save a threatened Territorial Army regiment, which has a base in Dudley, said it would be 'disrespectful' to generations of service personnel if it was axed.

The Royal Mercian and Lancastrian Yeomanry, which has existed more than 200 years, could be disbanded under plans being considered by defence ministers.

The TA regiment, which has a squadron base in Vicar Street, Dudley, could be split up to allow for the creation of a Scottish Yeomanry.

Dudley's A Squadron is the only remaining TA Royal Armoured Corps Squadron to be in the West Midlands.

Mother-of-three Hannah Bragg, whose husband Major Tom Bragg leads A Squadron, has taken up the fight to petition ministers in Whitehall.

More than 900 people have signed an online petition that Mrs Bragg, a 38-year-old housewife living in Buckinghamshire, set up against plans to axe the regiment. She wants to reach 100,000 which could trigger a House of Commons debate. Major Bragg, aged 36, works full-time as a registrar plastic surgeon at Stoke Mandeville Hospital.

The petition can be found at: petitions.direct.gov.uk/p/etitions/49480.

A memorial to workers

A NEW memorial will be built in Dudley honouring people who have lost their lives in the workplace as part of national commemoration.

Plans will be discussed for a site for the tribute after Dudley Council leader David Sparks signalled his approval.

The announcement comes after the town held a ceremony marking Workers' Memorial Day, led by the Dudley branch of the TUC last month. It could be positioned in Dudley's Corona-

Councillor to stand as independent

DUDLEY Councillor Karen Shakespeare, senior constituency case worker for Stourbridge MP Margot James, has stepped down from Dudley Conservatives in the wake of husband Les Jones's resignation from the group he used to lead.

She, like her husband, will now stand as an Independent Conservative. Miss James was recently appointed by the Prime Minister to a new advisory board of Tory backbenchers, including Jo Johnson, brother of London Mayor Boris, that will try to sharpen the Conservative party political operation for the general election.

Councillor Shakespeare said the Stourbridge MP understood her action and had been 'very supportive'.

Miss James said: "I'm sorry of course - but it's a matter for Karen and it certainly won't influence her work for me at all. She has my full confidence. I understand her reasons but won't comment on them.

"There's no embarrassment over this - there would be if Karen had resigned from the Conservative party, but she hasn't."

Councillor Shakespeare said the 'straw that broke the camel's back' to prompt her decision was current leader Councillor Patrick Harley's calls for Councillor Jones, now an independent Tory, to resign his seat in Pedmore and Stourbridge East, so forcing a by-election.

Councillor Shakespeare, aged 55, who has represented Halesowen North on the council for 13 years, said: "I have been a member of the party for almost 30 years and remain fully supportive of it. I am a loyal Conservative and there is nothing in my decision which will impact on my work with Margot

Addict is grabbed trying to steal fuel

A DRUG addict stole fuel from a petrol station three times in four days but was caught on his fourth attempt, a court heard.

Brett Hill had already stolen £178.69 of fuel from the Tesco petrol station in Hagley Road, Oldswinford, when he pulled up and began to fill his car and two jerry cans on May 1.

But staff recognised his blue Vauxhall Astra and ran out to apprehend him before police arrived to arrest him.

At Dudley Magistrates Court, Hill, aged 37, of Caledonia, Quarry Bank, pleaded guilty to three charges of making off with petrol without payment.

He also admitted one charge of attempted theft and driving without insurance and a licence.

Mr Paul Selby, defending, said Hill had been addicted to heroin for 15 years but had managed to hold down a job in the motor industry until being made redundant last year.

He said: "He needed petrol to look for a vehicle for a new business he was looking to set up. He wants to sort out his lifestyle and get off the drugs."

Sentencing was adjourned until June 17 for reports.

Theatre campaigners refute £10m estimate

Campaigners have disputed figures claiming the council would have to pay up to £10million to help renovate and reopen the former Dudley Hippodrome.

Dudley Council bosses are ploughing ahead with plans to demolish it as Dudley Zoo announced proposals for a new educational and conference centre on the land.

Council leader Councillor David Sparks said the authority could not afford to help fund the reopening of the Castle Hill theatre 'in the current climate'.

It comes after an independent assessment of the campaigners' business plan claimed the authority would need to subsidise the reopening of the Hippodrome as well as making an upfront investment of between £5m and £10m. But campaign leader Geoff Fitzpatrick said the group had not demanded cash from the authority.

Talks

Friends of Dudley Hippodrome members intend to hold fresh talks with council officers on May 29.

Councillor Sparks said: "As leader of the council, I am very well aware that there are many people that would like to see the former Hippodrome restored and reopened as a successful theatre."

"However, what the independent study has told us is this would require an upfront capital investment of millions of pounds and that even then the building would require a significant subsidy from the council, which in the current climate I think most people will appreciate is something we cannot commit to."

But campaign leader Geoff Fitzpatrick dismissed the figures revealed, saying campaigners have been unable to get a fully costed estimate for the works, due to the uncertainty of the theatre's future.

Traders are not happy at changes to parking bays

TRADERS in Stourbridge have condemned the conversion of some on-street parking spaces to disabled bays.

They say it is a blow to business as they brace themselves for the arrival of Tesco.

But other shoppers, including those with mobility problems, say business owners need to be prepared to compromise to improve the town's accessibility.

It comes as prices at council car parks in the borough will increase by 20 per cent. Two additional disabled bays have been created in Market Street to make a total of four in the road near Stourbridge Town Hall.

Highways bosses say they have also experimented by adding a further six in Drury Lane, past St Thomas' Church.

But shoppers have already made complaints to business owners following the move. Nigel Higham, who runs Crown Butchers, in Market Street, said: "I can't see the sense in it."

Stourbridge Township Council chairman Margaret Scott, who has mobility problems, said: "I don't think having four disabled bays in Market Street is overkill."

Bus stunt youths risking lives

The group of teenagers hitch a dangerous lift clinging on to the back of a bus

MOTORISTS and passers-by were stopped in their tracks as a group of teenagers dived with death when they hitched a bus ride - clinging to the back on their skates.

Onlookers watched in horror as the 'foolish five' travelled along brazenly for more than half a mile in heavy traffic from Cradley Heath to Quarry Bank.

The National Express bus company, describing it as a 'very dangerous' act, revealed it has had to mount extra inspections in the Quarry Bank area, where similar incidents have been happening, to nip it in the bud.

Julia Chance, who took photographs, was even mooned amid the traffic when the 'hitchhikers', believed to be in their early teens, spotted her using her mobile phone camera. She had seen the group hang on to a flap above the bus engine as it left Cradley Heath bus station and they carried on being pulled along as the vehicle travelled along Forge Lane to High Street, Quarry Bank.

"I couldn't believe what I was seeing - and neither could car drivers on the road," said 42-year-old Miss Chance of Hill Street, Quarry Bank.

She added: "If one of them had fallen off, they could have gone under the wheels of the bus or another vehicle. They really were the foolish five." National Express West Midlands spokesman Jack Kelly said: "This act is very dangerous and we urge those taking part to stop it immediately. Our drivers are reporting these incidents as soon as they are aware of them."

Charity ball raises cash

THE parents of a child wheelchair-bound by a crippling spinal disease have raised thousands through a sold-out charity ball.

About 180 people attended the event at the David Lloyd Leisure Centre in Brierley Hill.

It was organised by Paula and Toby Flatman, whose three-year-old daughter Hollie suffers from spinal muscular atrophy - a muscle wasting condition which damages the spinal cord.

The couple, of Burns Close, Stourbridge, set up the event as a first fundraiser and pulled in £4,135.

Boy hurt by fall

A BOY was hurt when he fell 12ft from a tree at an event in Stourbridge. Paramedics were called to the Global Day of Prayer event at Mary Stevens Park at 4.30pm on Sunday. The boy suffered chest injuries and was taken to Dudley's Russells Hall Hospital.

Owners of town bar in trouble

THE operator of a Stourbridge town centre bar has gone into administration.

Administrators from Deloitte were appointed last week at Atmosphere Bars and Clubs, which is based in Milton Keynes.

The firm runs 19 Chicago bars across the country including one in Ryemarket, Stourbridge for which a buyer is now being sought.

The Stourbridge bar only opened in September after Atmosphere spent £500,000 on refurbishing the former Que Pasa restaurant and bar.

It created 25 jobs and marked the return of the chain to the town after the former Chicago Rock Cafe in the High Street shut in 2010 when parent company 3DE collapsed and went into administration.

Daniel Butters, joint administrator and partner at Deloitte, said: "We are continuing to trade the business and all venues remain open whilst seeking a sale as a going concern."

JLR opens testing site

JAGUAR Land Rover has opened a new engineering test centre in Dubai.

The car maker will conduct extreme hot weather vehicle research, development and testing at the new site.

It is part of a major investment programme under way for the manufacturer including a £500 million engine manufacturing plant at the i54 site on the Wolverhampton and South Staffordshire border.

JLR director of engineering technical services Martyn Hollingsworth said: "Our new facility in Dubai is four times the size of the previous test centre and will enable us to enhance our testing of future products and technologies."

"The engineering team is focused on the quality and durability of our products."

Museum tickets

SEASON tickets are to be issued at the Museum of Carpet in Kidderminster due to an increasing demand for return visits. Tours of the Stour Vale Mill building in Green Street, which houses the museum, are proving so popular staff have decided to offer season tickets which will last until the end of the year.

Paper prescriptions to be replaced digitally

HEALTH Secretary Jeremy Hunt has signalled the end of outdated paper prescriptions and notes with the announcement of a £260 million fund for hospitals to help the NHS 'go digital' within five years.

Mr Hunt said using the latest technology could make the NHS safer by cutting down on the number of prescription blunders. He recently revealed 11 people died in the NHS in England last year after being given the wrong medication and the new money will be used to help develop 'electronic prescribing'.

"This will mean doctors can use technology to order prescriptions. It will also be used to help hospitals develop new electronic patient systems so medics from different departments in a hospital can access patient information quickly and easily.

Eventually it will be rolled out to GP surgeries, marking an end to the written prescription.

The new system will see computer-generated prescriptions, using barcodes unique to each patient, being sent by doctors directly to pharmacies.

Mr Hunt said: "This fund will allow doctors and nurses to make the NHS safer by harnessing the very latest technology.

"In many places, right now, a paramedic picking up a frail elderly woman who has had a fall will not always know she has dementia, because he or she cannot access her notes. Or a doctor is prescribing the wrong drugs because they don't know what drugs their patient is already on."

"If we are to improve patient safety then we must allow the NHS to have access to the best tools available and this fund will help them achieve that."

Medical director of NHS England Professor Sir Bruce Keogh said: "This new fund will help patients get better and safer care by giving clinicians access to the right information when they need it most.

"Supporting hospitals to replace outdated paper systems for notes and prescriptions will help relieve patients' frustration at having to repeat their medical and medication history over and over again, often in the same hospital, because their records aren't available."

"Expanding the use of electronic prescribing of medications in hospitals will help improve safety, save lives and save taxpayer's money."

Mr Hunt has previously set out ambitions to make the NHS 'paperless'.

Paul sheds light on silver screen with home cinema

IT'S a film buff's dream – a cinema at the bottom of the garden. That's just what Paul Slim has created, by kitting out his shed with a huge screen and surround sound.

The 36-year-old originally kitted out the living room of his Amblecote home with the hi-tech equipment but had to find a new home for it when his girlfriend, Nic, moved in. The Carphone Warehouse worker quickly hit on the idea of turning his shed into the perfect venue for him and friends to enjoy films on the big screen.

The project took around three months and £15,000 to complete with Mr Slim, who used to run the Movie Junction store in Stourbridge, doing a lot of the work himself.

It's fitted with four sofas and a 119-inch screen, a 3D projector and 11.2 surround sound.

The shed also has a lobby where Mr Slim stores his huge collection of 3,000 DVDs and Blu-Rays.

Visitors can also put on slippers or get hold of a hot or cold drink from the foyer just as they would in a real cinema.

It is also kitted out with a selection of movie memorabilia which Mr Slim has collected over the years.

In one corner are large cut-outs of Boba Fett and C-3PO from the Star Wars franchise while shelves are packed with models from Pirates of the Caribbean, including Captain Jack Sparrow, Kill Bill and The Simpsons. The collection also features figures from Shaun of the Dead and V for Vendetta.

Mr Slim's design for his shed has proved such a hit it is now in the running for a top prize in a nationwide competition to find Britain's best shedder.

The winner will be judged by Channel 4's Sarah Beeny and Kevin McCloud along with a host of enthusiasts.

Mr Slim said he had been a movie fan for years and had built up a collection of more than 3,000 titles.

"I designed the shed which was then built by an outside company who did all the woodwork and installed it," he said.

"I did everything else including all the installations, wiring and calibrating the sound and vision."

The shed can hold around 20 people comfortably.

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

THIS blog is coming to you, Wifi permitting, from the island of Inchmurrin on Loch Lomond. As every traveller knows, Scotland can be gloriously sunny in May. This is not one of those Mays. I am reminded of the traditional Scottish greeting to holidaymakers: "Och, but ye've just missed a beautiful fortnight."

THERE are three of us boating around the isles; myself, my younger brother and my old mate Lennox. We are not as young as once we were and we did the sum of all the medications we are taking to ward off the ailments of middle age. This is Three Men and Eighty-Four Tablets on a Boat. Some vessels announce their arrival with horns or whistles. Ours rattles.

ON OUR Highland island, the storm struck at precisely 4.28am, whamming into the side of our cottage like a giant boot and striking dumb a flock of cackling oystercatchers on the beach. The little black-and-white birds had been joyously celebrating the dawn and then thought better of it and dashed for cover. By breakfast, Loch Lomond was a frenzy of wild water, white horses erupting from shore to shore with vicious little squalls corkscrewing through the tiny harbour. Not the ideal sailing day.

I WAS reminded of the unkind old joke. What's that special word the Scots use to describe the conditions when it's perishing cold, the rain is lashing down and the wind blows you off your feet? Summer.

NO surprises about Olivia Colman winning two awards at the Baftas. I bet she'll be back in 2014 for her excellent performance in this year's murder mystery, Broadchurch. And here's another prediction. Watch out in 2014 for a best-supporting award for that old trouser Anton Lesser as the senior police officer in Endeavour. He doesn't just play the part; he becomes it, bringing all sorts of twitching prejudices and paranoia to it. What a pro.

DID you see the cops battering down the door of drug dealers in Liverpool this week as they broke up a multi-million pound drugs ring? It took forever. There was a time when the average front door ported company with its hinges after a couple of hefty whacks from the police battering ram. These days, steel-framed doors with five locking points, usually installed as part of a double-glazing package, can take ages to smash open. Energy efficiency – the criminal's friend.

EVERY day seems to bring another Tory standing up to declare that, if a referendum were held tomorrow, he would vote to leave the EU. So you might get the impression that withdrawal is imminent. Dream on. All David Cameron is offering is a referendum four years from now, assuming he is re-elected, which is a fairly bold assumption. Meanwhile, the real action is taking place in the eurozone, now on track to become virtually a single nation, because the only way to make the euro work is to have one central bank and one budget. This brave talk of pulling out is just smoke and mirrors. Britain is threatening to jump off a train bound for Brussels when the train has already been diverted to Berlin.

A READER tells me he got a bargain at an auction. He snapped up a Victorian stuffed dog for just £20, probably because the tail was missing from this much-loved pet of the 1890s. He asked the auctioneer: "If this dog were in pristine condition, what would it have fetched?" And the auctioneer replied: "Sticks."

My Boy Lollipop band member dies

A MUSICIAN from Dudley who played organ and harmonica on a smash hit of the 1960s My Boy Lollipop has died, aged 68.

Ray Deville, who lived in Stourbridge, was a member of The Five Embers, the backing band of teenage singing sensation Millie Small.

After the song reached number two in the UK Singles Chart and the US Billboard Hot 100 in 1964, the band embarked on a series of gigs and package tours.

Father-of-three Mr Deville, of Clent View Road, Norton, shared the stage with such legends as The Kinks, The Rolling Stones, John Lee Hooker and The Hollies.

His proudest moment was playing the organ in the backing band of his hero Jerry Lee Lewis on a Granada Television special in 1964.

By the early-70s, he worked as a rep for Cadburys in London and took the opportunity to move to the West Midlands where he settled in Stourbridge with his family. He also worked for Severn Trent Water.

His daughter Sarah Aston said Mr Deville, who was also a grandfather of six, had always adored playing music.

"He was always very modest about it. He considered himself a musician who had been doing a job," she said. Mr Deville, who remained well known on the local pub and club circuit, was born, in Hounslow, and was in the same primary school class as Ian McLagan of The Small Faces.

He died at Dudley's Russells Hall Hospital on May 9 after suffering a stroke.

His funeral was due to be held at Stourbridge Crematorium on Wednesday at 1.30pm.

High Court date is set in battle on waste tip

A HIGH Court date has been set for a firm at the centre of a row over a towering waste pile in Brierley Hill to answer claims of failing to meet strict targets on clearing the rubbish.

The Environment Agency will next month mount a fresh legal bid to enforce sanctions against Refuse Derived Fuel Ltd, also known as RDF.

The hearing will take place on June 17 at the High Court sitting in Birmingham.

The company was told at a hearing held last year that the front of the site should be cleared of rubbish by the end of March.

But officials from the Environment Agency are expected to argue the firm and its director Robert McNaughton have failed to remove the waste, which can be seen from the main gate of the Moor Street plant.

Neighbours, including in new homes built on the former Royal Brierley Crystal site, demanded a clear-up after the waste pile once reached 40ft high.

Mr McNaughton declined to comment, but his legal representatives have previously blamed bad weather for hampering the clean-up process.

In a statement the Envi-

by Andrew Turton

ronment Agency's West Midlands manager David Hudson, said it would be presenting evidence to Birmingham High Court showing the rubbish had not been removed.

"At this hearing, we will ask the Court to punish the company and the director (Mr McNaughton) for failing to remove the section of waste visible from the main gate, as agreed on 10 December 2012," he said.

"We will also seek to prevent any further waste going onto the site."

"We have asked for this prohibition of waste previously, but the High Court has not agreed to this action so far."

"Finally, we will ask the court to punish the company, Mr McNaughton and previous director, Sharon McCann, for breach of promises made to the court on June 18, 2012."

The Environment Agency has already spent more than £40,000 in legal costs.

Car production increases

UK car production has rebounded as home demand provided a much-needed boost for British-based auto manufacturers, new figures claim.

Car manufacturing rose 16.6 per cent in April, to 110,033 vehicles, following a slowdown in the early months of the year. Experts are now saying the UK car making sector could grow by a third by 2016. The Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders said the renewed growth reflected demand in the home market – up 66.1 per cent in April – and outside Europe, but weak demand from the Continent "remains a concern". SMMT interim chief executive Mike Baunton said: "UK car production bounced back in April."

Co-operative to help disabled

Councillor Rachel Harris, Kate Cottam, with back, Tracey McClymont, Hope the dog, Bill Bloomer and Ken McClymont

A CO-OPERATIVE offering financial advice to people with disabilities is poised to be launched in Dudley following strong interest from potential users.

The Dudley Centre for Inclusive Living wants to establish the service after holding meetings about providing a platform where disabled people can support each other. It is believed it could be the first of its kind in the country.

The group, with help from consultancy firm Linda Laurie Associates, has held meetings at Stourbridge Fire Station with potential users, officers from Dudley Council and the Department of Work and Pensions. Associates' senior partner Mike Higgins said: "We were extremely pleased with the response from people in the borough and from supporting bodies like the council."

Chairman of The Dudley Centre for Inclusive Living Ken McClymont said: "This is designed to help disabled people across the borough who maybe facing difficulties dealing with the finance side of things."

"We believe that by joining up and working together people will be in a better position in their dealings."

Over the limit man 'a danger to public'

A CONVICTED drink-driver has been described as a danger to the public after he was again caught driving while over the limit.

Simon Shaw was arrested after being stopped by officers driving on a Sedgley road last month.

The 24-year-old, who had been convicted of drink-driving 18 months earlier admitted driving while over the limit, at Dudley Magistrates Court.

Sentencing him District Judge Mr Graham Wilkinson judge said he was 'a danger to the public'.

He said Shaw, of Mason Street, Bilston, had been spotted by officers as he drove his Renault Clio down the middle of Bilston Street on April 17.

After a short pursuit they saw him stop outside a house on Greenway, the court was told.

He had gone inside where officers found him brushing his teeth to try and hide the evidence of his drinking.

A breath test found 59 micrograms of alcohol per 100 millilitres of Shaw's breath, almost twice the legal limit of 35.

Mr Wilkinson also banned Shaw for three years.

MP calls for your views

AN MP has called on patients to come forward with their experiences of treatment at Dudley's Russells Hall hospital which is being investigated over high death rates.

NHS medical director Professor Sir Bruce Keogh is leading the review of 14 hospital trusts across the country in the wake of the Stafford Hospital scandal.

Russells Hall Hospital is among those facing the probe after higher-than-expected mortality rates. Visit www.nhs.uk/NHSEngland/bruce-keogh-review-for-details.

Sales increased

BREWERS Marston's announced an increase in sales – despite revealing profits had been knocked by bad weather during January and March. Despite this the Wolverhampton beer and pubs group, which brews Banks' and Pedigree, has plans for more new pub-restaurants.

Fury at waste firm for no-show at meeting

RESIDENTS in Brierley Hill packed a public meeting to voice their fears over a proposed waste recycling plant – and were left angry when no-one from the firm behind the scheme turned up to answer their questions.

About 200 people raised concerns about increased road traffic and a lack of community engagement at the heated meeting at Brockmoor School last week.

They also raised fears the plant would devalue their homes and called on developer Clean Power, to offer compensation if the scheme got the go-ahead. But bosses at the firm refused invites to attend after already holding two public consultations on the proposal.

No-one from the company was available to comment.

Councillor Judy Foster, whose ward covers Pensnett and Brockmoor, said: "You may ask where Clean Power are. We have asked them to the meeting."

"They did not like the idea of the format. They said a public meeting of this sort would not be productive, they prefer it on a one on one basis with people."

"We can't compel them to come here, all we can do is take what people say and send it to Clean Power and the planning committee." The meeting was chaired by former Dudley councillor Rosemary Tomkinson. She was supported by Councillor Foster and Councillor Rachel Harris, whose ward is Brierley Hill.

Councillor Harris told the meeting the firm had amended the planning application for the plant earmarked for 60 acres of disused land in Moor Street.

She said the height of the digestion tanks had been brought down to reduce the visual impact on the surrounding area.

Tim Lee, of Seagers Lane, said: "The best shout we have got to stop this happening is to show the adverse impact it will have on the neighbourhood surrounding it."

"The planning department have to take into account we already have one waste site in Brierley Hill, now we have another one planned for right by it – this place is not a dumping ground."

He added: "If this goes ahead, all of a sudden we will find 70 more lorries on the road. This will not only cause damage to the roads, but cause danger for walkers and cyclists on them."

Gran thought her number was up until Ben stepped in

AS it was 'eyes down look in', little did grandmother Shirley Gardener know that the young bingo hall assistant she had only ever waved at before was about to save her life.

Ben Washington raced to give the kiss of life to the 66-year-old when she suffered a heart attack on a Ring and Ride bus as she left the Mecca bingo hall in High Street, Brierley Hill. The first aider – who had never before used his life-saving training 'for real' – clambered over the bus seats to reach her, breathe life into her and start compressions.

Doctors said his actions bought her the vital five minutes of treatment that saved her life. "He's Ben, my guardian angel," said Shirley, a retired cleaner, of Beecher Road East, Halesowen, who has now met the amusement arcade team leader to thank him and give him a grateful kiss.

The story of how Ben saved her life brought tears to the eyes of around 400 fellow bingo players when her husband, Richard, stepped up in front of them, flanked by Shirley, their four children and some of their grandchildren, to praise Ben's actions.

Tipple

The family presented the 33-year-old with three bottles of his favourite tipple – Jaegermeister.

Shirley, who has been a regular at the Mecca for around 15 years, was happy with a £55 win at bingo with her daughter Kerry, aged 42, on the night of April 29, when she began to feel breathless as they were leaving.

She got on the bus with Kerry, of Highfield Crescent, Colley Gate, but then collapsed between the seats.

Ben, who trained in first aid with St John Ambulance six years ago, raced to the rescue.

Shirley said: "When I opened my eyes I just saw this big face coming at me and I heard Ben say 'Shirley, come on' and I don't remember anything else."

Ben, who lives with his wife, Denise, and six-year-old son Cain in Norwood Road, Brockmoor, Brierley Hill, said: "Shirley was on the floor of the bus, so I climbed over a few seats to get to her and tried to get her comfortable because I thought at first it was asthma."

"But she said 'I'm going, I'm gone' and

Shirley Gardener, with her husband Richard and 'guardian angel', Ben Washington, who saved her life outside the Mecca bingo hall stopped breathing. That was the scariest bit, so I put her on her back and did CPR, including the kiss of life."

As Shirley began to regain consciousness, two other bingo customers – a hospital worker and a paramedic – came to help him, followed by an ambulance crew.

Shirley was rushed to Dudley's Russells Hall Hospital, where a medical team spent a further 45 minutes resuscitating her.

The doctor came out and said another five minutes and she wouldn't have made it," said husband Richard, aged 74, a retired packing case maker. "Ben giving her CPR gave her that five minutes." Richard added that emergency staff, as well as those on the critical care and cardiac units at Russells Hall Hospital, had all been 'brilliant' too.

Proud

Donna Brownhill, operations manager at the bingo hall, said: "Ben is very modest but the club, the company and all our customers are very proud of him."

"His quick-thinking saved Shirley's life."

West Midlands Ambulance Service were called to the scene outside the bingo hall at 9.40pm and they arrived a minute later.

They treated the patient at the scene before taking her to Russells Hall Hospital in Dudley where she received further treatment.

Steve parry, spokesman for the ambulance service, said: "When a patient suffers a medical condition every minute counts and the sooner a member of the public come to the aid of that patient the better chances that patient has of making a full recovery."

"The help of bystanders is also helpful to the ambulance service when such situations occur."

IN MY VIEW

WITH
ANDREWS

THE most interesting thing to come out of the Chris Huhne case was the nature of the institution in which he was held.

According to one of the television news reporters, it is up to prisoners whether they want to lock the doors at Leyhill Prison in Gloucestershire at night. Presumably this is to keep the riff-raff out. After all, you wouldn't want any wrong 'uns spoiling the party, would you?

The newsman also said the prison was very proud of its workshop, which knocked out an excellent line in window frames.

So this is a prison where the inmates are free to come and go as they please, and where they spend their days making window frames.

And suddenly it struck me. There are plenty of institutions like this all over the West Midlands, only the inmates are in the main, honest law-abiding people who would never dream of perverting the course of justice, or scarring the countryside with wind turbines or anything like that.

Only round here, we call them factories.

IN WHAT must surely be one of the most imaginative claims under the Human Rights Act yet, Iraqi drug dealer Hesham Mohammed Ali, claimed he should be allowed to remain in the UK because he had tattoos.

Ali, who arrived via a people-smuggling racket 13 years ago, had his application for asylum turned down and was handed a four-year sentence for dealing class A drugs, had a half-naked woman tattooed on his chest. As you do.

In Iraq, people with tattoos get stoned," he told the court.

Trust me, they do in Wolverhampton as well.

MEMO to the gentleman in front of me at Wolverhampton post office. Having your mobile phone on speaker in a public place is seldom a good idea, particularly when you are going through the security questions with your bank.

And given that everybody in the post office heard your name, address, postcode, date of birth and your mother's maiden name, it might not be a bad idea to update your security settings.

HERE'S a business idea you never see on The Apprentice.

Self-styled 'bacontrepreneurs' Justin and Dave have recently launched their new line in bacon-scented sun cream.

"Science has shown us that 10 out of 10 people prefer the smell of bacon to coconut, which makes this the most anticipated new product of the summer," says a press release for J&D's Bacon Sunscreen.

What a load of codswallop. Who'd want to smell like fried bacon? Now pork scratchings and you might be on to something...

Some of the delegates raising their concerns

Roger Davies from Yorkshire who played at the event

Jez Lowe headlined the showcase concert at Folk21

Folk for the future is what drives John

Folk clubs and small venues feel under threat. DANNY FARRAGHER spoke to the musician leading the fightback

THEY say an avalanche can start from just a single noise and while it may not be quite that dramatic, a rumble was started on Facebook by musician John Richards almost two years ago which turned into a national movement.

As part of this movement people from all over the Midlands gathered in Wolverhampton determined to find solutions that are crucial to their survival. John, aged 62, originally from Coseley and now living in Worfield, Bridgnorth, has been on the folk circuit for more than 40 years and is passionate about the tradition and even more so about the local clubs where new acts cut their teeth and which he feels are being ignored both by the folk circuit generally and the national and local media specifically.

Musicians

Folk21 saw its first West Midlands Regional Conference descend on the Newhampton Arts Centre, Dunkley Street, Whitmore Reans where promoters, club organisers, musicians and folk fans came together.

The all-day conference was split into two parts with the delegates and visitors having their say in two seminar-style gatherings and then the evening putting on a showcase for new acts from around the country. So where does the problem lie?

"The basis of Folk21 was that I was getting more and more depressed over a period of time as to the way the folk clubs were getting treated as compared to the festivals, the folk awards, the bigger concerts, radio and TV and I thought we were given very much the wrong end of the stick and that something needed to be done about it," explained John.

"I blogged this and a lot of like-minded

Musician John Richards who is leading the fight for survival for local folk clubs people came forward and we decided something needed to be done, but what could we do?

"What we decided was to become a catalyst for co-operation. The whole basis of the regional days was just that, so that we can co-operate and see how we can start to solve the problems that the clubs and venues are facing."

Since Folk21 was started it has organised regional days all over the country; in Yorkshire, East Midlands, East Anglia, London and there is soon to be a Devon and South West meeting.

The perception of local folk clubs is very nothing to do with modern folk."

"Now that is stopping younger people from getting involved in what we do, and my passion for this after playing and running folk clubs for 40 years is I want there to be continuity so the 'missing' 30-somethings and younger have a 'database' of folk clubs which they can carry forward for the future, because the way things are going they won't have, and that would be a tragic waste."

People came from many parts of the Midlands, South Staffordshire, Nottingham, Leicester, Bromsgrove, Willenhall and Wolverhampton to name but a few, and all seemed to have a common aim of making folk clubs the best experience they can be. Common concerns which emerged were the average age of the people at folk venues and the lack of publicity and communication between organisers up and down the country.

Problems

But John has no illusions about the enormity of the task.

"The main aim of the day was to get West Midlands folk club organisers together for the first time and to get them to share their problems."

"We also wanted to explore how the clubs and small venues could use publicity, PR, websites and social networking more successfully. I think we have raised a lot of issues which people are thinking and talking about and I think they will continue to talk about."

"I hope now through social networking there will be a lot of ideas posted, a sharing of ideas. Then getting everyone to start thinking about how we reach the 'non-folk' audience."

"That is absolutely key, it's what we do about raising the profile of the clubs and letting people know they can see brilliant musicians in intimate surroundings."

"My message to every folk club is to explore every possibility you can be as professional as you can, in your publicity and marketing and make sure when you get the people into your folk club that you give them the best experience possible."

THROUGH THE YEARS

1983...

A WOLVERHAMPTON councillor made history when he attended the 50th anniversary of the opening of a library. Councillor Ted Lane was also present at the official opening of the Heath Town Library in 1933.

SOCIAL Democrat David Owen was forced to abandon a pre-election walkabout after being banned from Wolverhampton's Mander Centre. A spokesman for Mander Properties said the centre was determined to remain non-political.

A WALSALL man who saved the life of a woman drowning in a canal admitted he knew nothing about lifesaving. Robert Dyhouse said: "I just muddled through," after rescuing Gladys Lewis from the canal and performing makeshift artificial respiration."

1993...

ORGANISERS of Dudley's Beer Festival had a race against time to get 150 barrels of ale set up for the start of the three-day event. Volunteers worked into the early hours after a last-minute hitch delayed delivery of scaffolding for storing the casks.

WOLVERHAMPTON'S top stores quit the town's Chamber of Commerce and set up their own pressure group. Marks & Spencer, Beatties, Boots, BHS and C&A were among the big names to walk out in protest at soaring membership charges.

A BANANA war broke out in Wolverhampton after Gateway's supermarket cut the cost of the fruit by half. Market traders said they could not compete with the store's price of 25p a pound, which was less than the wholesale cost of bananas.

2003...

WOLVES sealed their promotion to the Premiership with an emphatic victory over Sheffield United in the play-off final in Cardiff. Goals from Mark Kennedy, Nathan Blake and Kenny Miller secured the 3-0 win.

HUNDREDS of young fans queued up for hours to meet chart-toppers Girls Aloud at Dudley's Merry Hill Centre. The band stopped off at the centre's new HMV store to sign copies of their album Sounds of the Underground.

A Midlands town hall was alive with the Sound of Music as 300 film enthusiasts attended the first ever Stourbridge Film Festival. Visitors from across the Black Country came dressed as nuns, Germans and members of the von Trapp family for the opening event entitled Sing-along-a-Sound-of-Music.

Learn from the Grand campaign

PERHAPS Dudley's decision to demolish the Hippodrome reflects the cumbersome and unworkable unit the borough became after the latest gerrymandering of its boundaries.

Perhaps those absorbed against their will are delivering revenge by destroying the town itself. Clearly Dudley residents are significantly outnumbered.

One saving grace, for Wolverhampton's council, is it has twice enabled the rescue of the Grand Theatre, the jewel in the crown of the City's cultural life.

Dudley's Hippodrome deserves the same. Its supporters might learn from what helped persuade Wolverhampton's council in the 1960s. We collected money and raised enough to convince it and the theatre's bank there was sufficient support. In only 24 hours we raised £1,800, when the average wage was around £1,000 per annum.

Here is a chance for Dudley to step out from the shadow of its neighbour Brum and perhaps an opportunity for collaboration between two real theatres between them bringing the best shows to the South Staffordshire conurbation.

Everyone in the area should support efforts to save the Hippodrome. I have to confess I only once attended Dudley Hippodrome to see a pantomime. Dudley I recall was a bleak and windswept place apart from the street housing the Hippodrome, Cinemas and the zoo, which resembled a holiday resort.

In the same issue as you report the decision you report plans to waste millions on extending the Metro to Merry Hell. I urge people from all Dudley's neighbours to support attempts to save that theatre. Write to your MPs folks.

Let's make punishment match the criminal act

LET'S make the punishment fit the crime.

Instead of listing the hundreds of cases every week where I am shocked at the leniency of decisions made, may re: the Huhne/Price case.

We were told perverting the course of justice is an extremely serious thing.

All kinds of dire outcomes were prophesied for the husband and wife law breakers.

In the event, instead of years in the 'clink', they were sentenced to eight months. Then lo and behold, because they were 'model inmates', they are released after eight weeks.

Can anyone explain to me what constitutes a serious crime and why in this case were the pair given a tap on the wrists? Yes, I know the family unit may be destroyed, but that happens in most serious cases.

Political promises so easily reneged

DAVID Cameron on a visit to the USA has said only the Conservatives wanted to give people a say on a referendum.

We had his cast iron promise on this but we know cast iron is easily broken as are his promises.

America is not a member but they trade with anybody and any country anywhere in the world.

The American people would not take kindly to paying $53 billion a day and be told what to do, how to do it and when by Brussels or anyone else, so why are we?

Conservative MPs warn that voters do not trust politicians' promises on the EU, with good reason I would say.

UKIP leader, Nigel Farage is trying to get England to be a sovereign, and our laws and wishes adhered to once more.

JOHN PERKINS

How many more are entering illegally?

THE local heating engineer who brought the attention of the police to a lorry containing 12 illegal immigrants, who were detained at Watford Gap Services, makes you wonder just how many lorries entering Britain carrying human cargo go undetected despite increased security, or so we are told, on both sides of the channel.

One would hope that in this particular case the 10 adults plus 2 juveniles from Iran, Syria and Afghanistan would be removed from Britain in weeks, if not days, but of course it won't happen. After going through official procedures it's just as likely they will be on our streets to join the queue behind hundreds of thousands living here in the same situation. Immigration into Britain in whatever form has almost been a taboo subject since the infamous Enoch Powell speech. Since then governments of all shades have suppressed open debate on the subject for fears of being branded racist.

Consequently overwhelming public concern and the surge towards UKIP has now forced the Government to sit up and take notice, although I fear this move has come about 30 years too late.

Mother leaves her heart in notes to her daughter

SHE had travelled the world, helped clear up after a tsunami and lit up rooms everywhere she went.

But writing letters for her daughter's birthdays that she would never live to see would surely be the toughest thing 31-year-old Helen John ever did.

The 'inspirational and adventurous' young mother died of cancer just months after giving birth to baby Ella. Knowing she she had just weeks to live, Helen bravely penned poignant cards for her daughter Ella's first, 18th and 21st birthdays.

She also left four-month-old Ella a letter to read when she is older and even organised her own funeral to take the pressure off her grieving family.

The Stourbridge mother was diagnosed with liver cancer in January following the birth of her daughter and lost her battle against the illness just three months later.

Adventurous

She was unable to have chemotherapy because her body was not strong enough. Her husband Dean paid tribute to his wife's adventurous spirit and ability to put people at their ease even if they had only just met her.

Mr John, a 28-year-old self-employed electrician, said his wife had written out cards for her daughter's landmark birthdays.

They also held Ella's christening at St Mary's Church on Mother's Day this year.

Mr John said: "That was the kind of person she was. She never complained once. Once Helen had something in her mind she would just go and do it."

"Rather than be upset about what was happening she wanted to use the time positively by spending as much time as she could with me and Ella."

Mr John said he and his wife had first met at a private Christmas party

Helen studied for her PhD at the University of Birmingham

Helen John died of cancer three months after her daughter was born seven years ago and had got chatting.

"One of her friends asked me if I would look after her while she went on the dancefloor. I turned around and there was Helen," he said.

"One of things which attracted me to her most was how adventurous she was. She had visited places like Australia and Guatemala while taking time out after university."

Tsunami

"Following the tsunami a few years ago she had travelled to Thailand to help with the clean up."

Mr John said his wife had inspired him to join in her adventures and they had visited Thailand, India and Croatia. The couple had married at St Mary's Church on October 2 2010.

They both shared a passion for dancing and even took part in competitions in places such as Blackpool.

Mr John said: "Although we were only together for seven years I feel we did more together than some other couples do in a lifetime. She will be missed by everyone. She had a lovely smile which lit up any room she walked into. She was also very talkative."

Helen, who died on April 22, attended Tividale Comprehensive and King Edward VI School, Stourbridge, then studying at Edinburgh University.

After completing her undergraduate degree at the University of Edinburgh, Helen moved to the University of Birmingham to undertake a Masters in Public Health. Following the completion of her Masters, she undertook a PhD. In early 2011 she was appointed to the post of Senior Research Facilitator in the School of Health and Population Sciences at the University of Birmingham.

Karla ready for drop

Karla Churchill at her home in Ironbridge Walk, Pedmore, Stourbridge is to do a parachute jump for Help for Heroes

BRAVE Karla Churchill will conquer her fear of heights in a big way for a parachute challenge - inspired by her soldier sister and ex-serviceman father.

The 21-year-old health care assistant from Stourbridge will be plunging 13,000ft to raise at least £500 for the Help for Heroes charity, which supports wounded servicemen and women. Her 19-year-old sister, Ebony, joined the army's 16 Air Assault Brigade three years ago and is based in Colchester.

Her father, Julian, as a former member of the Third Battalion of the Royal Regiment of Fusiliers, was in Northern Ireland during the troubles. "My sister and I are really close and one day she or one of her friends could need the support of Help for Heroes," said Karla who lives in Pedmore.

"My dad saw three of his close friends blown up and killed by roadside bombings in Northern Ireland. So, although it's out of my comfort zone because I don't like heights, I decided to do a parachute jump."

Karla works at Newbridge House eating disorders clinic in Sutton Coldfield. The parachute jump is due to take place in Nottingham on August 24, which is Karla's birthday. Donations can be made at bmjcharity.co.uk/karlasjump forfourheroes or email karla-dechurchill@hotmail.com.

Boss went on a crime spree after being jilted

A LOVESICK £700-a-week construction site manager has been jailed after going on a three-week crime spree when he was jilted.

Alexander McEvoy stole jewellery from a pawnbrokers, took a £33,000 Mercedes from a car dealership and then lead police on a 70 mph chase at the wheel of a stolen Audi A4, Wolverhampton Crown Court heard.

by John Scott

The 26-year-old walked out of a pawnbroker shop in Queen Street, Wolverhampton on March 4 wearing a bracelet he had not paid for, said prosecutor Mr Zaheer Afzal.

On March 9, McEvoy drove off in a Mercedes C Class coupe from a dealership in St John's Road, Stourbridge.

He stole £49 of fuel next day from a petrol station in Halesowen Road, Netherton.

Next McEvoy took an Audi A4 and was spotted at the Stewponey junction in Stourton on March 20, continued Mr Afzal.

The defendant sped off from police and led them on a five mile high-speed pursuit along the Kidderminster Road towards Wolverhampton before stopping at Stallings Lane, Kingswinford.

McEvoy denied claims the Audi had reached 100 mph while being chased by the police.

Mr Oliver Woolhouse, defending, explained: "He is a man who has difficulty dealing with emotion and stress in his life and lost all hope for the future when his relationship deteriorated and broke down."

McEvoy from Grange Road, Dudley, who had previous convictions, pleaded guilty to theft, bliking, which is taking fuel without paying for it, and aggravated vehicle taking.

He was sent to prison for two years and four months and was also banned from driving for three years.

Driver, 22, is charged over death

A MAN has been charged with causing the death by careless driving of a mother-of-two in a car crash.

Samantha Jennings, aged 26, from Kingswinford, died in the accident on the A449 at Cookley, near Kidderminster, early on December 8.

She was a passenger in a Vauxhall Astra which hit a tree near the Island Pool pub. The driver was taken to Birmingham's Queen Elizabeth Hospital with serious injuries.

A 22-year-old man from Stourbridge has been charged with causing death by dangerous driving and possessing cannabis.

He will appear before magistrates on May 30.

Transformation to bring new life for Kingfisher

IT'S hosted the cream of musical and comedy talent during its long history and now an iconic country club in Dudley is to get a new lease of life.

From The Supremes and The Drifters to Gerry and Pacemakers and Joe Longthorne – they have all performed at the Kingfisher Country Club, Wall Heath.

Comics such as Bernard Manning and Frank Carson have performed on its stage.

Now the club's new owners Individual Holdings is to start work on transforming the club – recognisable for its thatched roof – to bring back high-profile names in entertainment.

A refurbishment of the bar will get under way this month before work starts on the lounge and then the club function room next year.

The company, which will create around 50 jobs, will also extend the club's opening hours, from two days to seven days.

Director David Facer said: "Wall Heath and Kingswinford have been lacking a premium venue for many years and we plan to transform the Kingfisher back into a great country club, restaurant and premium venue."

Mr Facer is one of the three directors of the company alongside Marina Parry and Paul Mildenstein.

Mrs Parry, who visited the Kingfisher Country Club 30 years ago, said:

"I remember having some great nights out in the Piranhas wine bar in the late 80s." Mr Mildenstein added: "Even though the detail of this plan has been in progress for over six months we all as directors know that the real hard work begins now and we will be looking to our trading partners to form a strong alliance to ensure that we give the customers locally what they really want."

The club had been previously owned by the Williams family, but after a member's ill health the family was unable to go through with refurbishment and was forced to sell it.

Individual Holdings runs a chain of local pubs, including The Wall Heath Tavern and The Lenches Bridge in Pensnett.

Plane crashed due to fogged up windscreen

A PLANE crashed into a helicopter because the pilot had failed to clear his windscreen properly, a report from an accident investigation agency has revealed.

The pilot of the plane, a flying instructor, was trying to navigate between a fuel tanker and a fire service vehicle at Halfpenny Green Airport near Stourbridge and failed to spot the helicopter parked at a fuel bay.

The impact destroyed the plane's propeller and caused damage to its clutch and gearbox.

The tail and tail rotor system of the parked helicopter were also damaged in the collision.

A report by the Air Accident Investigation Bureau said the instructor had been supervising a student when the crash took place at about 9.50am on December 12 last year.

It said: "After completing the daily inspection, the instructor briefed his student for the exercise and then the pair boarded the aircraft.

"With the engine running, air was directed to the windscreen but it was slow to demist, so the instructor cleared the inside of the screen with the back of his glove."

The accident report went on to state: "He also reached through the direct vision window and cleared moisture from the outside of the screen immediately in front of him."

The report said initially the student was controlling the plane, a DA Diamond Star, but the 59-year-old instructor took over because the low sun meant the student was unable to see.

It said: "The instructor failed to see the helicopter parked at the fuel pumps and the aircraft taxied into its tail at low speed."

Dancers train for zumbathon event

ZUMBA enthusiasts are going through their paces in training for a mammoth session to raise money for the Royal National Lifeboat Institution.

The three-hour zumbathon, run by instructor Suzanne Richardson and her team, will be held at The Kingswinford School, Water Street, Kingswinford, on June 15.

Those taking part will dress with a beach party theme and people of all ages and abilities are invited to take part.

Instructor Suzanne said: "It may seem strange that we have chosen to support the lifeboat service, but so many people locally will be visiting the coast this year and the RNLI's beach lifeguards will once again be visible on the sands during the coming months helping to keep the beaches safer."

"The zumbathon will be supporting in particular the courageous volunteer crew of the lifeboat 'The Frank and Lena Clifford of Stourbridge', stationed at New Quay on the Welsh coast, and the lifeguards who will be operating there this year."

The event will run from midday until 3.00pm with children, who must be supervised, taking part during the first hour.

COMMERCIAL FEATURE

Don't be disappointed - choose Choices Windows

The home improvement market is changing and the demand for more choice in colour and suitability of PVC-U doors and windows is growing. Fashionable additions such as orangeries are increasingly desirable, as more people look for ways to improve their home.

Established since 1994, Tipton Windows & Conservatories Ltd, trading as Choices, believe that the latest trends are important, but quality products and exceptional service will always be paramount, which this family run business have proven over nearly two decades.

Situated on Sedgley Road West in Tipton, the founder and company Managing Director Nathan Beddows started the business from scratch at the early age of 19 working out of the very same premises as he does today. He explains his passion:

"I cannot stress enough how much pride we take in every window, door, conservatory, orangery we manufacture and install."

With its roots in manufacturing, the business started more than 19 years ago, and right from the very start an emphasis has been placed on supplying only the finest and most energy-efficient products, but still remaining affordable.

"Our commitment extends beyond the manufacturing process to the design and installation of doors, windows, conservatories, and other home improvement services," explains Nathan.

"For some customers we supply new windows and doors, for others we provide a complete home improvement service from building extensions and fitting kitchens, to designing and installing conservatories and more recently Orangeries," says Nathan.

One tremendously satisfied customer is Rick Houghton. Having being recommended to Choices Windows by colleagues at work he employed them to carry out extensive work at his home, he is keen to share his experiences and commend the team involved.

"Every stage of the process was excellently planned and we received nothing but the best service from start to finish. The tradesmen were outstanding and we were so impressed that we handed over our keys and went on holiday whilst the work was being carried out."

Rick and his family were absolutely thrilled and utterly delighted with the results on their return.

"We are so grateful to Nathan and his team for transforming our home into something we could only have dreamed of," remarked Rick.

Keen to keep ahead in the style stakes, Nathan is ever aware of the latest designs, materials and colours on offer, and strives to make these available to his customers.

"Many people are now opting for stylish coloured PVC-U, influenced by timeless muted 'National Trust' tones. Sage green, gun metal grey and cream are all becoming very fashionable alongside the traditional clean bright white," explains Nathan.

Fitting new PVC-U windows can be a good choice for the environment as well as for your home. Replacing dated double glazing can help save money on heating bills and reduce the carbon footprint of a residence.

"We offer A-rated energy-efficient windows and doors which can help save up to £250 from heating bills in the first year alone. They not only reflect heat back into the house, but also retain heat from solar gain," remarks Nathan.

"As a company we pride ourselves on giving old fashioned value for money and excellent service, we can undertake the majority of jobs and because we manufacture in house at our premises unlike the majority of our local competitors it enables us to have full control so we can manage your project from start to completion ensuring your experience is stress free".

"After many years in the Double glazing business we have seen a lot of competitors come and go, unfortunately leaving many customers without any warranty, after parting with their hard earned cash. Any customer who is considering having any home improvements should choose carefully and do their homework on the company they are considering, ensure if you part with money upfront it is protected by a Fensa approved deposit indemnity scheme, ask to visit previous customers but most importantly don't be fooled by the salesmen's tactics of a tempting "sign on the night low price offer" that the double glazing industry is notorious for "advises Nathan.

The old sayings are always the best - after a low price is long forgotten, poor quality long remains".

New manager is taking over at city theatre venue

THE new manager of a Black Country theatre has been announced.

Neil Reading has taken over the post from Kevin O'Sullivan who retired last month after 27 years at the Arena Theatre, Wolverhampton, which is part of the University of Wolverhampton.

The 30-year-old from Gnosall, Staffordshire has spent the past year working as the promoter at the theatre's sister venue, The Performance Hub, on the Walsall campus.

In his new role, as well as overseeing the programming and management of the theatre, Mr Reading will continue to be involved in the development of the Performance Hub.

Before starting work at the hub he worked as the student activities co-ordinator at the university for five years, increasing the numbers of students joining societies and volunteering.

He has also worked for other venues, including The Moat House Hotel Stafford and Rugeley Rose Theatre, and has toured to Battersea Arts Centre, Gatehouse Theatre Stafford and Bedlam Theatre in Edinburgh. He has a performance background, gaining a BA (Hons) in Theatre Studies at University of Hull and an MA in Directing for Theatre at St Mary's College in Twickenham.

Mr Reading founded the Violet Microwave Theatre company in 2000 and has directed all of their shows to date. He was also a founder member of Juice Comedy in Stafford.

Fresh fears on steel jobs

FRESH fears over the future of UK steel jobs were raised today after India's Tata Steel wiped £1 billion from the value of its European operations.

The group, which has UK operations at sites, including Wednesfield, Brierley Hill and Bescot in Walsall, blamed the tough economy in Europe where steel demand has slumped by about a third since the start of the financial crisis.

Unions said the huge writedown will worry its 18,500 staff in the UK who are still reeling from 900 job cuts last year.

In November Tata announced that sites would close in Cradley, Kingswinford, Wombourne and Dudley, although there would be fresh investment in the Wednesfield Steelpark site.

Around 120 jobs will be lost in the West Midlands when the closures are completed.

Tata, which bought Anglo-Dutch steel giant Corus in 2007 for £6.2bn, has endured a tough time during the downturn as demand from construction and car-making fell, forcing thousands of lay-offs and plant closures.

It employs more than half its 33,000-strong European workforce in the UK.

Tata warned tough conditions are likely to persist for the 'near and medium-term'.

In February its European business reported a £51 million underlying loss for the three months to the end of 2012, with steel deliveries falling to almost 10 per cent to 3.02 million tonnes.

Paul Talbot, from the Community trade union, said: "These statements are concerning, there's no question about it. They are concerning to the employees who at this moment are still working their way through the last announcement."

The £1.05bn writedown of Tata's assets and goodwill is thought to be one of the largest ever by an Indian company.

Demand for homes up

DEMAND for homes is on the rise in the West Midlands, thanks to the Government's new Help to Buy scheme, claims a new report.

A survey of chartered surveyors carried in April found inquiries from new buyers were at their highest level since last October. The Royal Institute of Chartered Surveyors study found 20 per cent more surveyors were reporting demand for property rising rather than falling. That is three per cent higher than the month before and is seen as strongly suggesting that Help to Buy is already attracting interest.

Dangerous road fears delays homes decision

PLANS for new homes to be built near a historic windmill have been deferred amid fears it will make one of Dudley's most dangerous roads even more treacherous.

Cameron Homes Ltd wants permission to build 14 properties on land adjacent to the Old Windmill in Vale Street, Upper Gornal. But while Dudley Council's development control committee praised the plans they were concerned it would lead to increased traffic along the street.

Members said the road was one of the narrowest in the borough with a bend along part of the carriageway already the scene of a number of accidents.

And they said while the development would be a boost to Upper Gornal they could not approve the scheme when it could have a detrimental impact on the road.

They agreed to defer making a decision on the scheme so highways officials could look at the situation. Access to the development would be via Moden Close, but the committee said cars would still have to use Vale Street.

Councillor Stuart Turner said: "This is a real problem. If there is a more dangerous road in the Dudley borough I would like to see it."

"The housing development itself is a great idea and I have no problems with it. However we simply cannot just wave something like this through without considering Vale Street. Councillor Rachel Harris said there was no available funding for improvements to the roadway and it would be unfair to ask developers to do something about it."

Co-op enjoys record sales

THE region's biggest Co-op has unveiled record sales of £943 million for the last year, with a major boost from its fledgling energy business. Midlands Co-op saw its overall sales rise 20 per cent while its Co-operative Energy arm saw sales jump to £46 million from just £7 million the year before.

Ron is top of the pots

Ron Smith who is Stourbridge and District Snooker League best player

HE has played hundreds of frames of snooker over the past 64 years and even went cue-to-cue with Alex 'Hurricane' Higgins during an exhibition match.

Grandfather-of-nine Ron Smith proved he still knows his way around a snooker table after topping the league rankings at the age of 79.

Mr Smith beat off competition from more than 60 other players to come top of the individual players table in the Stourbridge and District Snooker League.

He plays in Division One of the league with his team from Kinver Constitutional Club where he has been a team member for 45 years. Mr Smith, a retired chimney construction business owner, won 20 out of his 24 games to win more than any other player - scoring a break of 45 in one frame. He said: "They say it is a good achievement at my age but I just really enjoy playing." Mr Smith, who lives near Kinver with his wife Elaine, first picked up a cue aged 15 when challenged to a game by friends from Dudley Grammar School. Mr Smith played former World Snooker champion Alex Higgins at Kingswinford Conservative Club during an exhibition match when Higgins was in his 20s. He recalled: "It was a good experience to play him."

Visitors enjoying a miniature railway when the fair was held at Lower Pendeford Farm, Coven

The cover of the original programme for the fair

Steam fair may lose traction at park site

By Alec Brew

THE first weekend in June will probably see the Wolverhampton Steam and Vintage Fair held for the last time in city's West Park.

Budget cuts at Wolverhampton City Council will mean that if it is to continue for the 20th time next year, a new site will be needed.

When it began, in 1995, it was organised by the Rotary Club of Wolverhampton at Lower Pendeford Farm Coven, under the chairmanship of John Wootton.

The pattern was established right away, with steam traction engines, large and small, vintage vehicles, a large model marquee and other attractions.

There was a parade of vehicles around the farm each day.

Free buses were laid on to bring visitors from Wolverhampton, and the event was considered a big success.

Subsequently, it came under the wing of the council's Outdoor Events Department, and was moved to West Park, and most significantly the parade of traction engines and vintage vehicles went through the city centre starting at noon on the Saturday.

The event was free to enter, and, weather permitting, grew into a spectacular annual attraction.

Each element of the event continued to be organised by volunteers with Councillor Malcolm Gwinnett and Jacki Wynn of Outdoor Events playing major roles, not least when Councillor Gwinnett lead the parade as mayor.

The basic elements remained in place, with a large outdoor fair in one field, and the steam and vintage vehicles in another, but new attractions were to be added, like an American Indian Village and an aircraft section organised by the Staffordshire Aircraft Restoration Team.

The parade brought startled shoppers to a standstill as steam rollers, armoured vehicles and fire engines suddenly rolled through Queen Square and around the city centre, the last such city centre parade in the country.

Council budget cuts have halved the budget for this year and will be cut altogether next year, so that if John Wootton and his team of volunteers organise the event in 2014 it will have to be elsewhere.

CLUB NEWS

Club told history of chocolate

TRYSTALL & SEISDON WI

THE club welcomed chocolatier Jacqueline Smith to its May meeting. She began by telling the group a little of the history of chocolate.

In 1657 the first chocolate house opened in London, but it wasn't until 1847 that Joseph Fry made the cocoa into a paste that could be turned into a chocolate bar.

In 1824 John Cadbury sold tea, coffee and cocoa. He and his brother began manufacturing chocolate drinks and confectionery at the factory in Bournville.

Jacqui told how the cocoa pods are harvested and cracked open, then the beans are put in leaf lined bins to ferment. They are then left to dry naturally in the sun, or they are roasted.

She said chocolate was very good for our hearts and blood pressure. It is also an antioxidant.

She demonstrated how easy it is to make a simple chocolate lolly and sent round samples of plain, milk and white chocolate. At the end of the talk the ladies were able to buy some of her chocolates and bars.

After refreshments Clare Preece gave the answers to a chocolate quiz she had prepared earlier. Mary Farquharson won the raffle and Clare won the competition for a chocolate cupcake.

At the next meeting on June 13, the competition is a beer tankard and Bob Bibby will take the group on a cake and ale trail.

Insight into hospice work by fundraiser

WALSALL CENTRAL EAST TOWNSWOMEN

NEW Chairman Mrs Patricia Jones opened both the April and May meetings by welcoming all the members and visitors, before dealing with the business part of the meetings.

In April she then welcomed speaker Jenny Chin whose subject was 'The Work Of The Hospice'.

Jenny is a fundraiser for St Giles Hospice Walsall and gave a very interesting and informative talk on the work and financing of St Giles.

The May meeting, due to a number of members being on holiday, a Beetle Drive was held. This was a wonderful success, which led to a better fellowship with the newer members who had recently joined from the former Mellish Guild.

A coffee morning was being held in May, with proceeds being donated to St. Giles Hospice.

The next meeting will be on Tuesday June 4 at Walsall Central Methodist Church in the Mellish Room from 7pm. The speaker will be Amanda Green whose talk will be 'Beaststalk Literary Charity'.

Members and friends are invited.

Fundraiser Jenny Chin was guest speaker at April's meeting, talking about St Giles Hospice

WALL HEATH FLOWER CLUB

MARYLIN Ottowell was the April demonstrator. Her title was 'Get Ahead, Get a Hat'.

Marilyn began with the story of her son in Peru. The arrangement was on a large vase containing mango callalilies, sunflowers, gerberas, yellow roses, begonia leaves and hypericum berries. Her next arrangement was in a red vase containing Singapore orchids, stocks, red tulips, red roses anthuriums and phlox, this incorporated a red hat.

A beautiful black and white arrangement followed for 'Graduation' with a mortar board.

Marilyn also took members for tea at the Ritz, while the last arrangement was 'The bride' using wax flower, stocks, lilies, yellow roses and orchids.

The June 25 demonstration is by Isobel Liston, entitled 'Powerful Women'.

'If it wasn't for my foster parents, Alan and Sarah, I wouldn't be the football coach I am today.'

Believe in children
Barnardo's

Barnardo's Registered Charity
Nos. 216250 and 8003790

Barnardo's is backing a national campaign to recruit more foster carers and is appealing to people across the West Midlands to consider sharing their home with a child in need.

With an estimated 950 children in the West Midlands looking for a foster home, Barnardo's is hoping to use Foster Care Fortnight 2013 (13-26 May) to attract more carers from the region to come forward.

The theme of this year's campaign is "In the Frame" and Barnardo's West Midlands Family Placement Services hope many more people will step forward and put themselves in the frame to find out more about fostering.

They need foster carers to look after children either on a short term or long term basis, as well as to provide regular short breaks to families with disabled children.

Regular information evenings are staged at the service's base in Dudley where potential foster and adoptive families can find out more and ask questions.

A social worker will then visit prospective carers at home, prospective carers will then undergo preparation and assessment training which takes around 4-6 months on average to complete.

Carers have their own social worker to support them throughout the process and new foster carers will also be "mentored" by an experienced foster carer to provide additional help for the first six months.

"Many people think you have to be married, or under a certain age to foster, but that's not the case," says Sara Castro, who manages Barnardo's West Midlands Family Placement Service.

"You have to be over the age of 21 and have a spare bedroom, but can be married, single, on in a same sex relationship. The main thing is that you can offer a child or children a safe, nurturing experience of family life."

Case Study:

When Gill and Ken Cademy from Rugeley got together, they couldn't have children of their own.

Gill had a son and Ken had two older boys from previous marriages and so wanting another child together, they decided to adopt through Barnardo's.

Their first glimpse of the girl that was to become their daughter was a photo in a "Find a Family" magazine. At nine years old, Becky was a little older than the child they'd initially anticipated adopting.

But the photo of the smiling bubbly little girl with hair plaited, and head cocked to one side, won them over and having gone through all the preparation and training, they were soon united.

CHARITY CAMPAIGNS FOR MORE FOSTER CARERS

Despite a cool reception from Jack, who by now was 12, in the car coming home from the station, Becky soon became the daughter they'd always dreamed of.

So when Becky went off to college to study beauty therapy, the couple decided they could open up their home to another child, and they came back to Barnardo's as potential foster carers.

They underwent training and preparation - which included interviewing Becky and Jack - and were approved to foster another child.

After two short term foster placements they decided they could offer long term foster care to a child and in January became the "forever family" to a six year old little girl, "Gemma" (not her real name).

Part Of the family

Gemma has quickly become part of the family and loves having older brothers and sister - especially when she gets to dress up in party dress and have her hair curled just like Becky.

Now aged 18, Becky said: "It's great that I have been on both sides of the fence, having been fostered and now being part of a family who are fostering."

"I know exactly how it feels and can really relate to Gemma and her needs."

Becky has been helping prepare potential foster carers and adopters has helped create special resources used during their training.

"I was really pleased to be asked by the West Midlands Family Placement Service to help develop some of their training resources. So much so, that I'm now looking towards a career in social work instead of beauty."

"I feel that thanks to the loving family who adopted me at the age of nine, I have so much to give and hopefully that will help other children and families in future."

Gill said: "If you are considering fostering then I'd definitely say go and find out more. It can be challenging, it can be frustrating but we were never put off and it is very rewarding."

"Many people under-estimate the amount of time it takes to go through all the necessary checks and training, so again, I'd urge people who are thinking about it, to just do it."

"One of the things I discovered was the importance of the extended family, grandparents, aunts and uncles in welcoming a new child and making them feel part of the family."

If you are interested in finding out more about fostering or adoption, please call Barnardo's West Midlands Family Placement Service on 01384 458585.

Dambusters flypast

A Lancaster bomber flying over RAF Cosford

Spectators at Cosford watching the aerial spectacle

THE 70th anniversary of the Dambusters raid was celebrated this afternoon with a flypast at the RAF Museum, Cosford.

A Lancaster bomber performed the flypast just before 12.30pm last Thursday, flying over the museum three times before thundering off into the distance. About 800 onlookers were there to watch.

It was the first time the museum has seen the iconic bombers perform a flypast. The flypast marks 70 years since 19 Lancaster bombers took off from RAF Scampton in Lincolnshire, on a mission to destroy German dams with a revolutionary "bouncing" bomb.

Paul Stratford, 62, from Lichfield, said he went to the museum with his daughter and grandson. He said: "It flew very low, and it looked really big."

Philip Bebb, from Shrewsbury, was there with his wife Rosemary. He had previously been in the RAF and trained at Shawbury in 1959. He said: "It's wonderful to see and it was flying quite a lot lower than normal."

Families are £44 a week worse off, say figures

PEOPLE are up to £44 a week worse off since 2010 because of rising inflation new figures claim.

Workers in Staffordshire are up to £2,288 a year worse off in real terms while people in the Black Country are between £26 and £36 a week poorer. The figures, from the Office of National Statistics, have been seized upon by the GMB trade union which said soaring fuel and food costs had been outstripping pay increases, leading to a cut in living standards.

Three years ago the average weekly wage in the West Midlands was £469 and since then it has stayed the same.

Nationally the minimum wage is set to rise 12p an hour to £6.31 from October under plans announced by business secretary Vince Cable.

However, the GMB said that to cope with inflation the average wage would need to be £507 a week, meaning people are on average £38 a week or £1,976 a year worse off. Staffordshire has been the hardest hit.

In 2010 the average wage was £495 but it has actually fallen by £4. Coupled with inflation people are now £44 a week worse off. In Dudley wages went up from an average £451 a week to £455 over two years but inflation means people are £1,664 a year worse off.

In Sandwell wages rose from £418 to £425 but people are £1,352 a year worse off on average.

Walsall people are £1,924 a year on average worse off due to inflation and a cut in wages from £424 to £419.

Wolverhampton saw wages rise from £424 a week to £431 but inflation wiped out the improvement and left people £27 a week or £1,404 a year worse off.

The cuts has been calculated taking into account wage increases and inflation. Political officer for the GMB union Stephanie Peacock accused the Government of not doing enough.

She said: "Families are suffering more than in many parts of the country because of the Government's out of touch policies."

THE WAY I SEE IT

1,000 people say we should keep our local TA regiment

OUR TA regiment, the Royal Mercian and Lancastran Yeomanry, has a history dating back to 1799.

The base on Vicar Street houses A Squadron. It attracts recruits from across the Black Country and two dozen volunteers are on active service overseas.

But under Ministry of Defence plans, the regiment will be disbanded so a new Scottish unit can be set up.

If it goes ahead, the Midlands would lose half its five squadrons so that a new organisation can be created, which will be difficult and expensive at a time when the MoD is already having to make great savings.

I have worked very closely with members of the Territorial Army in Dudley, their families and supporters for many years and I'm going to fight these plans all the way.

I've written to Defence Secretary, Philip Hammond, tabled a series of Parliamentary Questions and spoken out in Parliament.

Now one of the Squadron wives has created an online petition.

I've added my name and I'm urging people in Dudley to do the same. Nearly 1,000 local people have signed so far.

The RMLY is also one of the best recruited yeomanry regiments in the Territorial Army and a recent recruitment drive saw an extra 47 people

Dudley North Labour MP Ian Austin takes the stand in our weekly Chronicle column which gives our local representatives the chance to air their views "Of the 133 airman who set out just 80 survived. We should never forget their contribution to securing Britain's liberty and the world's freedom."

brought into training. Another 60 leads are being pursued.

It makes no sense to scrap a popular and expanding regiment with deep roots in the local community when the TA is due to double in size in the next few years.

We need to send a strong message that people in Dudley want the regiment to remain in the town. To add your name to the petition go to <http://petitions.direct.gov.uk/petitions/49480>

Cost of living

Last week I stood up in the House of Commons to demand the Government does more to help local families cope with the rising cost of living.

I told Government Ministers about the results of a constituency survey which showed that nine out of 10 Dudley families don't think they'll be better off next year.

Eight out of 10 told me they spent less at Christmas this year and a similar number stopped saving.

The Office of Budget Responsibility says that real wages will be lower in 2015 than when this Government came to power.

But with living standards falling, prices rising and more and more people worried about the security of their job, the Government has prioritised a tax cut for the super rich.

I wanted to know why the Government is cutting taxes for millionaires instead of helping hard-pressed families in places like Dudley.

Dambusters

It was a privilege to join local veterans at a service at Coronation Gardens to commemorate the 70th anniversary of the Dambusters Raid.

On the evening of 16 May 1943 airman from the RAF's 617 Squadron set out to attack three dams in the Ruhr Valley.

They showed unimaginable bravery, flying low in the dead of night to breach the dams and seriously disrupt the German war effort.

Of the 133 airman who set out just 80 survived.

We should never forget their contribution to securing Britain's liberty and the world's freedom.

New mayoral team

Congratulations to brilliant Castle and Priory councillors Alan Finch and Margaret Aston who will be the new Mayor and Deputy Mayor of Dudley.

Both have given outstanding service to the people of the Wren's Nest and the Priory over the years and this is a great reward for all they've achieved.

Alan has nominated The White House Cancer Support and Hearing Dogs for Deaf People as his Mayoral charities and he's going to dedicate his Mayoral year to raising as much money as possible for these great charities.

Spice up the kitchen with a hot makeover

WITH the kitchen now heralded as the social hub of the house, where family and friends get together to chat, eat and relax, it is becoming a focal point for more vibrant colours and styles.

Makeover experts Granite Transformations look at the hottest design trends for 2013, which enable the kitchen to take on an exciting new look, without breaking the bank.

1 Kitchen Remodelling

The hottest trend is remodelling, which involves retaining the familiar layout and cabinetry, but refacing the worktops and replacing the old cabinet doors and drawer fronts. Not only does this mean less disruption and outlay than a new fitted kitchen, you are likely to recoup most of the remodelling costs if you're planning to sell.

2 Colourful Kitchens

You could indulge in the big new trend for vibrant colours. You could choose bold primaries like red, orange and emerald green for worktops, reflecting a more casual, upbeat way of living, or go for high gloss door facings in olive, paprika, blueberry or plum.

3 Mixed Finishes

Take a cue from interior designers, with a mix of cabinetry finishes that combine dark and lighter tones at different levels, to give an eclectic look. Or perhaps choose a different worktop colour for an island for a contrast.

4 Bolder Splashbacks

Regular splashbacks provide protection from moisture and grease, but today's trend is towards bigger, broader surrounds that also make a decorative statement. Extend composite granite, quartz and recycled glass work surfaces to the underside of wall units or ceiling height for a luxurious finish or go for

Vibrant colours like the paprika on the wall cabinet doors reflect an upbeat way of living while adding decorative murals and custom glass mosaics, inset, could give some sparkling elegance to your kitchen glass mosaic tiles for sparkling elegance.

5 Cleaner Lines

Follow the continental fashion for cool, sleek lines, featuring flat slab doors with no handles or minimalist door and drawer pulls. There's also a move toward matt finishes as an alternative to high gloss doors. Deeper edge profiles on replacement worktops give a solid contemporary look, without the extra weight of solid stone.

6 Island Units

If space allows, an island unit turns your layout into a designer kitchen, with bar stools for informal eating, drinking and conversation.

7 Eco-Chic Materials

Design trends reflect that the 'green' movement is still gathering momentum, with eco-friendly materials gaining in popularity. Choose from recycled glass worktops, or composite granite and quartz surfaces containing natural stone salvaged from quarrying sites.

8 Decorative Murals

Most kitchens have limited wall space, but it's good to introduce a bold splash of colour with a decorative wall mural or feature panel. Authentic glass mosaic tiles mounted on a backing matress introduce colour, texture and a tactile finish, while natural daylight and halogen spotlights contribute a sparkling, reflective dimension.

Offering a complete remodelling service, Granite Transformations can provide all these kitchen design upgrades and more. Go to www.granitetransformations.co.uk to check out your nearest showroom.

Brits come clean on state of their homes

MILLIONS of Brits reckon their home is a 'pigsty' because they are just too busy to clean, according to a new study.

Researchers have found that seven in 10 of us are unable to find the time to take care of everyday chores such as vacuuming, dusting and cleaning the bathroom.

Fifty-seven per cent of people even admitted they have times when they would describe their home as a 'pigsty' because they never have a chance to tidy it up.

More than one in five have even refused to let people into their home because it was in such a mess.

A spokesperson for cleaning product firm Spontex, which commissioned the research, said: "We are leading busier lives than ever and when you are juggling so much, it's inevitable that something has to give."

Chunks

"And it seems that for many, staying on top of their household chores and keeping their home spotless is what they are letting fall by the wayside."

"But this means that many Brits aren't happy with the state of the home, and it's alarming to see that so many even have times when they would describe their home as being like a pigsty."

"Cleaning can be done in small chunks which makes it much more manageable to fit everything in and around your everyday life."

"If you are struggling to fit the chores in, rather than doing a big clean once in a while, running the vacuum round one day and then cleaning the bathrooms the next can make life a lot easier."

The study of 2,000 people found that

Are you one of those who has not dusted in the past six months?

63 per cent do not think their home is as clean as they would like it to be, with half of those blaming this on being too busy to clean.

Another 39 per cent simply do not like cleaning while 21 per cent do not think they are very good at it.

And almost a quarter say they have got better things to do than worry about the state of their house.

Forty-two per cent have never cleaned their home from top to bottom, and even those who have admit it was an average of almost five months since they last did this.

More than one in 10 owned up to not cleaning their bathroom for at least a month nor having done any ironing for a year.

One in 20 had not washed clothes and one in 10 had not got the vacuum out for a month or more.

Almost one in 10 had not used a duster for at least six months, while one in 20 admitted it had been at least a year since mopping a floor.

More than one in 20 owned up to never cleaning their windows.

And 60 per cent did not think they will ever have a spotless home.

Researchers also revealed that a third of people's homes are such a mess, that visitors or friends have commented on the state of it.

Clutter

And more than half have rowed with their other half about the mess.

It also emerged that 73 per cent of people regularly shove things under cushions or behind sofas so any clutter is out of sight when someone pops in.

While 60 per cent have shut doors to certain rooms so guests cannot see the mess. Despite this, 90 per cent claim they consider themselves to be a tidy person.

The Spontex spokesperson added: "Our advice is to do a few, small tasks daily or several times a week rather than try and spend a whole day just cleaning."

"This will keep your home in top condition with minimal effort and give you the satisfaction of completing your chores."

"Many people feel a real sense of fulfilment and more in control of their lives when they are on top of jobs round the house."

REVIEW

Eddie Izzard, NIA, Birmingham
A MASTER of rambling, absurdist humour, only perhaps Paul Merton can get close to Eddie Izzard when it comes to bizarre flights of fancy.

But the self-proclaimed 'action transvestite' never really seemed to hit top gear in Birmingham on Wednesday night. Maybe it was the venue, the humour evaporating in the cavernous environs of the NIA. It would have hit home at a packed Symphony Hall or Hippodrome rather than a half-empty arena. Turning to watch him on the big screens beside the stage literally became a pain in the neck.

Izzard, looking dapper in a suit with wine-red nail varnish and high heels, did not disappoint as he talked his constantly amusing rubbish for nearly two hours. It seemed like stream of consciousness but must have been structured. Yet the Force Majeure tour's 'God' theme remained vague and pointless, though apparently 'Steve God' sounds like Darth Vader.

There were wonderful surrealist episodes featuring ghost cows, a banjo-playing Kraken and gold-mining bling moles in sports cars, all as disjointed as the Tweets from his fans screened before the show and during the 20-minute interval. His thoughts on dressage 'only useful if you want to park a horse in a cupboard' – were priceless.

Glamorous lawyer briefs encounters

STAR of An Evening of Burlesque Bettie Bonbon is not just a pretty face. Bettie, who will be bringing her show to Wolverhampton Grand Theatre tomorrow night (Friday), studied law at university, got a good degree and went on to become an underwriter at Lloyds of London.

However, a few years ago, Bettie decided to concentrate on a career involving figures of a very different nature, becoming a full-time burlesque performer, and she says she has never looked back.

Parody

Now also a teacher at The London Academy of Burlesque, Bettie said: "There are so many misconceptions regarding what a burlesque show is all about."

"It's very tongue in cheek and I think more people are realising that now. Burlesque is the Italian word for parody."

"Burlesque and variety, the two go hand in hand," added Bettie. "So expect the glamour and the girls in the show to be interspersed by equally outrageous speciality acts."

Women regularly outnumber men in auditoriums on An Evening of Burlesque's tour. Contact the box office on 01902 429212.

More than just a pretty face – burlesque artist Bettie Bonbon

IN THEIR 25th anniversary year Texas release a new studio album this week and return in November with a UK tour including a headline show at the Symphony Hall, Birmingham.

Texas's eighth album, The Conversation, is their first in eight years and the latest in a career that has seen the band sell over 30 million albums worldwide. Their multi-platinum albums include White on Blonde, The Hush and a Greatest Hits including such tracks as their 1989 debut I Don't Want A Lover, Say What You Want and In Our Lifetime.

Guitarist

This overdue return features tracks written and produced by founder members of the Glaswegian band singer/guitarist Sharleen Spiteri and bassist Johnny McElhone, alongside collaborations with singer-songwriter Richard Hawley and former Suede guitarist Bernard Butler.

The album was recorded in Glasgow, London and at Richard Hawley's studio in Sheffield for a marriage of Hawley's 50s rock'n'roll frills and the Texas sound.

Texas play the Symphony Hall on November 18. Tickets start from £37. Call 0121 345 0600.

REVIEW

Paper Aeroplanes, Glee Club, Birmingham
SARAH Howells provides the distinctively clear voice for the duo Paper Aeroplanes with Richard Llewellyn playing his half of the act with lead guitar, backing vocals and harmonies.

Raven-haired, Howells' piercingly clear voice has a fantastic range, seemingly unlimited power and yet at times manages to keep a childlike quality to it.

Starting out with A Time to Be which was a much louder version that had much more of a rock feel to it than the ethereal acoustic version on their new album Little Letters.

Therein lies a potential problem. It seems the live versions of their tracks on the album promotion tour are much harder and heavier and if you have only heard them from the recording it could be something of a shock when you hear them live.

Also from their new album was At the Altar which was a strong ballad which built up slowly then dropped out for the verses before building back up again for the chorus. For the Same Mistakes Howells allowed the softer side of her voice free rein for this torch song.

The set included mostly tracks from Little Letters with the odd oldie thrown in. For the strong ballad Lifelight, Howells' voice stood out, hitting high and low notes with consummate ease.

Casualty

BBC1, 9.30pm

Making a mistake at work for most of us isn't great, but usually it means a few groans and a slap on the wrist. That's not the case for medical professionals, whose errors can have far-reaching consequences for their patients and their families – as Tom is beginning to realise. But it's his confidence that's taken a real beating following a recent misdiagnosis, and it's going to take a lot of hard work for him to get it back. Meanwhile, in one of the week's most moving storylines, Tess tries to help a young woman with a bleak future.

Colin O'Donoghue

Once Upon a Time

Channel 5, 8pm

For almost half a century Barbara Hershey has been one of the most dynamic actresses working in Hollywood. She's also rather good in this saga from the Disney stable. In the latest offering, Cora (Hershey) sends her zombies to abduct Aurora (Sarah Bolger) and swap her for the enchanted compass the sorceress needs to travel to Storybrooke. Elsewhere, Snow takes the sleeping powder in the hope of warning the local residents of the danger, and Captain Hook (Colin O'Donoghue) appears to be playing a game of his own.

Cool Runnings, BBC1, 1.55pm

A sprinter fails to qualify for the Jamaican Olympic squad, but refuses to give up his dream. Learning that a former US bobsleigh coach is living nearby, he seizes the chance to shine in an entirely different sport, and cajoles three of his friends to join him in training for the 1988 Winter Olympics in the far less tropical environment of Canada. Fact-based comedy, with John Candy. (1993)

TUESDAY

Desperado, Channel 5, 10.50pm

A mysterious musician carrying a guitar case full of firearms turns up in a small backwoods town to exact revenge on the drugs baron who killed his girlfriend and permanently injured his hand. WEDNESDAY

Zombie-fighting heroine Alice comes out of hiding to protect a group of refugees in a post-apocalyptic wasteland overrun by the walking dead. Meanwhile, the sinister corporation that created the zombie virus is about to embark on its most dangerous experiment yet. Sci-fi thriller sequel, starring Milla Jovovich. (2007)

THURSDAY

Bad Boys, Channel 5, 9pm

Detectives Mike Lowrey and Marcus Burnett search for a $100million heroin consignment brazenly stolen by a French drug kingpin from the police evidence room. However, after a mix-up over a phone call from a potential witness, each cop has to assume the other's identity. Thriller, starring Will Smith. (1995)

FRIDAY

Death Race, Channel 5, 9pm

When a popular driver dies, crooked prison warden Hennessey persuades Ames to take his place, claiming he will be released if he is victorious. Jason Statham stars. (2008)

Pick of the Week

David proves he still has what it takes

He's the Starman, a real Space Oddity and one of our Heroes. He's also known as David Robert Jones, the Brixton boy who grew up to be one of the most influential music artists of all time.

Of course, we all know him best as David Bowie, a change of moniker forced on him by the fact that in the early days of his career, Davy Jones was making a name for himself as a member of The Monkees.

Even if you're not a fan of his music, you've got to admire the way in which Bowie has continually managed to reinvent himself, and not so much moved with the times, as stayed ahead of them.

For years he kept out of the spotlight, then surprised everybody by announcing the release of The Next Day, his first studio album for 10 years, on his 66th birthday.

He's kept quiet about it ever since, apart from revealing he will never do another interview, preferring instead to let the music do the talking. If anything, his silence has also helped to generate interest in him and his work.

The Next Day has been a massive success, with the public intrigued by what he might have been up to during his absence. And while it's a good album, even the most ardent Bowie fan would probably admit that it isn't as impressive as the offerings he gave the world during his most productive period, which lasted through the 1970s to the early 1980s.

This period continues to be seen as the most important of his career to date, and five separate years of that time are looked at in-depth in this new documentary.

Its makers have decided that 1971, 1975, 1977, 1980 and 1983 are when Bowie was at the peak of his powers, and it's hard to disagree with them.

The programme will look at Ziggy Stardust, the decision to adopt a soul sound for Young Americans, his Thin White Duke persona, time in Berlin, and the later Scary Monsters (and Super Creeps), and Let's Dance albums.

We're promised previously unseen archive footage and interviews with collaborators too.

"David Bowie is one of the most important international music stars of the past 50 years," says Jan Youngblood, the BBC's Commissioning Editor, Music & Events. "His impact on the music industry around the globe is exceptional. The never-before-seen footage in this programme will provide a fascinating insight into the world of this very private person."

Francis Whately, director, adds: "This is a project that has been in development for more than a decade, in fact since Bowie and I worked together in 2001 on a film for the BBC Omnibus strand. This year, 2013, is shaping up to be the year of David Bowie, and now is the perfect moment for this feature-length film devoted to this extraordinary artist."

Extraordinary indeed. Fifty years after he recorded his first demo, and after so many ch-ch-ch-changes to his image, Bowie is, as his song Fame states, too cool to fool.

David Bowie – Five Years, Saturday, BBC2, 9.20pm

Best of the Rest

Britain's Got Talent ITV, 7.30pm

Every year this series shines the spotlight on some hilarious acts, and impressionist Philip Green is one of them. The 21-year-old comedian got a unanimous four yeses to take him through to the semi-finals. Of course it's anyone's guess who will have made it through to this stage of the finals, but as we all know, you don't need to win BGT to land a career, as Susan Boyle proved a few years ago. What we can tell you is that Ant and Dec will be in their best attire as judges. Simon Cowell, Amanda Holden, Alesha Dixon and David Walliams give their verdict on the night's returning acts.

The Queen: A Passion for Horses BBC1, 9pm

It's no secret that the Queen loves horses. She's been photographed and filmed at numerous events over the years, and even has her own racehorses. But just how hands-on is she when it comes to her equine friends? The BBC has found the perfect person to find that out – national treasure Clare Balding, whose grandfather, father and brother have all trained the Queen's horses, which gives her a unique insight into Her Majesty's stable. This documentary charts the course of one spring season, from the births of foals at Sandringham to the thrill of race day at Newbury. Princess Anne and Zara Phillips, who are following in her footsteps (or should that be hoofbeats?), also discuss their esteemed relative's dedication to her four-legged friends.

TUESDAY

The Apprentice BBC1, 9pm

Our economy might be struggling following a series of recessions, however one rule of business is thus: go where the money is. That's exactly what the candidates do this week, as they're bundled onto an early morning plane for a business trip to Dubai. It's in the oil-rich Emirate city that this series' scavenger hunt takes place, as the teams are challenged to track down items for a hotel. While one team hopes to capitalise on a bit of local expertise by scouring the markets, another heads straight to a shopping centre.

WEDNESDAY

The Iraq War BBC2, 9pm

Without doubt the most contentious decisions made by Tony Blair and George W Bush during their time in office were in regard to the war in Iraq. For the first time, key decision-makers on both sides of the conflict, including Tony Blair and members of Saddam's regime discuss their roles... and their regrets. The first of three episodes concentrates on the build-up to the war, as the politicians involved recall the circumstances that made conflict inevitable, and attempt to refute some of the myths and speculation that have come to surround a war that is doomed to be forever shrouded in controversy.

Frankie

BBC1, 9pm

Frankie is determined to get her life in order, beginning with her home. She gives it a fresh lick of paint, changes the locks and throws away the last of Ian's stuff. However, just when one section of her life appears to be nearing some form of normality, her work life hits a crisis as the circumstances of Liana Corden's death begin to be investigated meaning she needs her team's support more than ever, but this doesn't materialise from Dr Evans who continues to try and bring her down, using another patient as ammunition.

THURSDAY

Die Hard: The True Story Channel 5, 7pm

In 1988, action thriller Die Hard became one of the biggest hits of the year. It helped transform Bruce Willis from charming TV regular into an A-list movie star, and created a template which has been slavishly adhered to ever since in films such as

Under Siege, and more recently, the dreadful White House-centric Olympus Has Fallen. It spawned four sequels, including the hi-tech, rather enjoyable Die Hard 4.0, which saw John McClane joining forces with a technological whiz-kid who tackled a warped IT expert trying to bring down America's computer systems. This show examines how likely large-scale cyber terrorism is.

Britain's Stone Age Tsunami Channel 4, 8pm

It might upset some to know this, but 8000 years ago Britain was literally attached to the continent by a land mass the size of Germany. In 6000BC Doggerland was washed into the sea by a raging tsunami. What remains is a shallow area of the North Sea now known as Dogger Bank. Using modern digital technology, Tony Robinson and a team of archaeologists are able to take a virtual journey through this vanished landscape.

FRIDAY

Sarah Millican: Thoroughly Modern Millican Live Channel 4, 9pm

Sarah Millican left many critics rolling in the aisles when she seized victory at the Edinburgh Fringe a few years ago. She soon gave Micky Flanagan a run for his money as one of UK TV's most ubiquitous guests, so there was little surprise when Bebb bosses finally gave Ms M her own show. If you shelled out a tenner or more for the DVD of her stand-up performance at London's Hammersmith Apollo during her 2012 UK tour, then you may want to give this free version a wide berth. Everyone else: settle back and enjoy as the omnipresent funnywoman reflects on the wonders of making a home-made treadmill, the reasons for carrying spare pants and the practicalities of an orgy.

Ticks all the boxes when off-road

By Sharon Walters

I HAVE a friend who does a lot of off-roading, including some pretty tough driving challenges. And this female has a fair income to fund her hobby, so she can afford pretty much whatever she wants to drive.

Her choice? A cheap and cheerful Suzuki Jimny.

"It's compact which means I can get just about anywhere I want to squeeze, it's chunky and copes with the bumps and grinds, and because it hasn't cost me the earth I won't wince if I do any damage," she explained.

So when I got the latest Jimny on test, I took her out for a bit of a spin – well not quite literally. A quick trip to her home to pick her up proved the other thing she told me, it's not that hot on roads and is a bit basic. Well they do say you get what you pay for. On the other hand, she added, because it is small you can park it in some very tight places if you pop into town to do some shopping.

And so off we trundled across the fields at her home. Some fair slopes, a lot of mud and tyres that were not specifically for off-road, proved to me just what the car can do. For a car so small it copes magnificently with bumps although on the road the ride can be a little tough. We had a great deal of fun and Jenny is now upgrading her old Jimny.

The Suzuki Jimny, a budget-priced off-roader, gets to work in difficult conditions

Jimny has a neat and practical look and since sales began in 1998, it has accumulated a loyal following of repeat customers who enjoy a quirky alternative to a supermini or crossover SUV.

The 1.3 litre engine may appear small but it gives lively performance and decent fuel economy. Maximum torque is delivered from as low as 2,500rpm, which Jimny the kind of flexible driving character and pulling power that makes it so good off road. The seats give good support, especially needed for those driving challenges.

There's a good level of standard equipment across two trim levels: SZ3 and SZ4.

The entry level SZ3 models include; front fog lamps, roof rails, remote central locking, ABS with EBD, push button selectable four-wheel drive with high and low ratios and automatic freewheeling hubs. SZ4 models add even more specification as standard including air conditioning, 10 spoke 15in alloy wheels, latest design seat trim with 'Jimny' badging to front seat facings, black and silver-finish roof rails, leather steering wheel trim, chrome plated interior door handles and rear privacy glass.

The driving position is high and commands an excellent all-round view. All on board enjoy plenty of headroom, increasing the sense of spaciousness created by the large glass area. Rearward visibility is aided by large, electrically operated door mirrors and a spare wheel mounted low on the rear door.

Toughness

Since its launch in 1998, Jimny's separate, full box-section chassis has established a strong reputation for durability and toughness.

The rigid front and rear axles are attached to the chassis by a three-link arrangement, with an anti-roll bar fitted at the front. This well-proven design, controlled by long-travel coil springs and gas dampers, is configured to cope with the demands of rough surfaces, while ensuring a refined and compliant ride on conventional roads.

Suzuki's Drive Select 4x4 system features a transfer box with high or low-ratio four-wheel drive. The freewheeling front hubs are engaged automatically and four-wheel drive can be selected on the move while travelling in a straight line at speeds of up to 62 mph. Jimny is fundamentally designed to cope with off-road conditions with 190mm ground clearance, approach and departure angles of 34° and 46° respectively, and a ramp angle of 31°.

Jimny's chassis offers extreme rigidity in the event of a collision and is designed to absorb energy from all directions in a controlled manner. Progressive, reassuring braking performance is provided by large front discs and rear drums, supported by ABS with EBD (Electronic Brakeforce Distribution).

Airbags for driver and front passenger, side impact protection beams and height adjustable front seat belt anchorages are all standard, and the powerful multi-reflector halogen headlamps are complemented by the front bumper-mounted fog lamps.

A wide range of Suzuki genuine accessories are available. I have the perfect buyer for one of these. Aside from keen off-roaders, those who live in the country need a standby car with four-wheel capability to cope with the ever more difficult winter (and summer) weather we are getting, with flooded roads and snow and ice on the increase, and one that doesn't cost a lot of money.

New Peugeot 308 is looking pretty good

PEUGEOT has released first images of the New 308, a car launched to revitalise the brand's position in the ultra-competitive, compact family hatchback segment.

"The new Peugeot 308 has a pure and technological exterior design that speaks of high strength and high quality," says Gilles Vidal, Design Director, Peugeot.

With its compact length of 4.25 metres and well-balanced proportions, the New Peugeot 308 projects a classy and sophisticated presence.

The front is dominated by an evolutionary reinterpretation of the brand's 'floating' front grille, and by the strong lighting signature. Slim full-LED headlamps are standard on the majority of trim levels and a world-first in the segment.

The high quality of design continues at the rear, with the three Peugeot (lion) 'claws' drawn by the rear LED lamps.

"When inside the car, one discovers a world of refined style, completely original in the world of hatchback cars, with a cockpit that is intense, innovative and intuitive; it is the Peugeot i-cockpit," says Vincent Devos, New 308 Product Manager, Peugeot.

Peugeot's design and engineering teams have developed the interior of the New 308 around the concept of the i-cockpit.

Everything is arranged for an experience that is intuitive, relaxing the driver to focus entirely on the road ahead. The compact steering wheel and head-up instrument layout mean that information can be clearly read easily and safely, looking over rather than through the wheel.

The highlight of the New 308's generously spaced cabin is the 9.7-inch touch-screen interface, which removes much of the need for physical buttons and switches. Setting a new size standard for the class, it brings together many of the infotainment controls in one place, for ease of use and to create a contemporary and uncluttered cabin.

Advanced new modular platform gives an outstanding driving experience.

"On the road, driving pleasure is enhanced by the new EMP2 modular platform. With its considerable reduction in weight, it contributes to the dynamism and easy handling of the New Peugeot 308," says Laurent Declercq, New 308 Project Director, Peugeot.

The driving experience of the New Peugeot 308 draws on the brand's expertise in suspension and steering, and takes them to a new high due to the benefits of the new EMP2 platform.

Development of this new PSA Group architecture has resulted in 116 patent applications and contributes towards the vehicle's excellent dynamic qualities. It also plays a key role in the car's considerable weight reduction, by an average of 140kg compared to the current generation Peugeot 308.

One of the highlights of the new Peugeot 308 is its interior cabin which is packed with goodies

Breakthrough engineering has allowed many of the vehicle's major units to be reduced in size - also cutting overall weight - leading to significant reductions in CO₂ emissions. As a result, this new Peugeot 308 establishes an environmental benchmark, with one model offering CO₂ emissions as low as 85g/km.

The New Peugeot 308 is the latest evidence of the brand's move up-market. It's an initiative started several years ago and seen most recently with the 208 and 2008.

The initial design brief of the New 308 had the highest levels of quality at its core. This ambition has guided the designers and engineers from the very start of the project.

Every element, both inside and outside, has been developed and refined with exceptional attention to detail. The choice of high quality interior materials and the satin chrome or gloss black detailing add to the feeling of sophistication and maturity in the car's design and assembly. The New Peugeot 308 will be built at the Sochaux plant in France. The Trémery and Douvrin sites will supply all of the power units.

The New Peugeot 308 will make its world premiere at the Frankfurt Motor Show on 10th September 2013, when more information about this innovative new model will be released. Sales will start shortly afterwards in mainland Europe and from January 2014 in the UK.

The new-look Skoda Superb will be available with six engine options, three petrol and three diesel

Summer launch in UK for the flagship Skoda range

ŠKODA has revealed UK price and specification details for its updated Superb flagship model.

Having undergone a comprehensive facelift, both hatch and estate versions offer a fresh and attractive design, an upgraded interior and significantly improved fuel economy and CO2 emissions. On sale in the UK from July 17, prices for the facelift Superb range start at just £18,555 (OTR) for the 1.4-litre TSI 125PS S hatch. The top-of-the-range Laurin & Klement Estate model costs £32,455 (OTR) when paired with the 2.0 TDI CR 170PS DFP engine, 4x4 and 6spd Direct Shift Gearbox (DSG). Diesel versions start from £19,760 (OTR). The premium for the estate over its hatch sibling is £1,125.

The Superb facelift will be available in the UK with six advanced engine options: three petrol and three diesel. Power outputs range from 105PS (1.6 TDI CR) to 260PS for the 3.6 V6 model.

Engines are up to 19 per cent more economical than the previous generation units, and a fuel-efficient Green-Line version offers emissions of only 109g/km. The fleet sector will make a significant contribution to Superb sales, and with BiK starting at just 16 per cent, and more rear legroom than most prestige cars, the Superb's appeal is obvious.

Alasdair Stewart, Brand Director for SKODA UK, said: "The Superb continues SKODA's tradition of offering a huge amount of space, engineering excellence and great value for money."

"Since its launch 12-years-ago, the Superb has been lauded for its versatility, comfort and equipment. This comprehensive facelift builds on these and we are confident that the excellent improvements to fuel consumption and CO2 will appeal to both fleet and private customers."

Bank gain lead over Hagley in the league

Cricket

ASTWOOD BANK moved seven points clear of Hagley in Division One of the Worcester Cricket League.

The Bank took a two-wicket win at Droitwich while Hagley piled up the runs at home to Redditch but were unable to force victory. Hagley amassed 321-8 despite the efforts of James Bevan who took 6-110. Redditch clung on at 239-9 but dropped to fourth as Worcester overtook them by beating Pershore at home.

Belbroughton climbed to fifth with a win at Oldswinford. Burghill achieved their first win in Division One, beating Bromyard by two wicket. Dominies defeated bottom-placed Pedmore by two wickets thanks to 118 not out from John Hancock. Bewdley won again in Division Two but by just three wickets at Wormelow and their lead was cut from seven points to three by Enville who crushed Rushwick in less than 15 overs.

Feckenham and Harvington took their third wins out of four matches against Coombs Wood and Cookley respectively. Tenbury fell to Netherton who snatched their first win of 2013. In the other match, Colwall beat Stourport.

Narrow

Division Three leaders Lye stayed top after a narrow win at home to Romsley and now lead Avoncroft – who beat Social – by just one point. Malvern are third following their draw at home to bottom side Himley.

For Malvern, Andy Cullen made 88 and so just missed out on his third successive ton while Himley's Matthew Bowen carried his bat for 35.

Birlingham won their first match, beating Alvechurch. Himbleton beat Ross and Harborne drew at Alveley.

Division Four saw Old Vigornians stay top with a maximum 24-point win for the third week running by beating Halesowen.

Cleobury Mortimer beat Chaddesley while Bartestree won at Kidderminster despite a ton from Paul Mitchell.

Bromsgrove beat Old Hill and Barnards Green had Matt Brookes' spell of 8-46 to thank for their win over West Malvern.

In Division Five, Claverley and Martley both maintained 100 per cent records.

True grit as Jones battles into the finals

by Craig Birch

DUDLEY boxer Connor Jones has reached the junior ABA national finals, writes Craig Birch.

Jones, from Lions ABC in Dudley, reached his first national final in five years by coming through at Great Barr Leisure Centre.

This weekend's final at Mansfield will be the first for Jones since the Schoolboys in 2008 after another unanimous points win that all appeared to hinge on the third and last round.

After two fairly even sessions, Lions trainer John Shakespeare berated and fired up the 17-year-old in the corner and he bombed back out to win the fight. Jones bit down on his gum-shield and traded punches with James Thompson, from Wellingtons ABC in Middlesbrough, launching left hooks and right back hands.

He took shots along the way and had to brave it out against the Northerner, who reached a Clubs for Young People national final last year, to take the judges' decision.

Walsall Wood ABC's Joseph Stevenson scored a sensational third-round stoppage to join club-mate Daniel Breeze in the finals.

Great Barr has staged the pre-quarter, quarter and Sunday's semi-finals and it's proved to be a happy hunting ground for Stevenson.

He has blazed a trail at 71kg in the most senior section – Class Six, for boxers born in 1995 – and has now taken out George Parrish, from Beartown ABC in Cheshire.

Stevenson handed Parrish two standing counts in the third of four rounds, forcing the referee's intervention after a right hand set up a tasty left with defences down.

Parrish fell for the same move moments later after his hands came down as he looked to jab his way out of trouble, forcing the man in the middle to call for the bell.

Breeze was nearly as comprehensive a winner at 66kg in Class Five – boxers born in 1996 – against Cory Fenwick, from Horden ABC in County Durham, in a points victory.

The West Midlands entrant worked almost exclusively with his jab and popped it out to negate Fenwick's attacks, turning his fists into screw shots for added effect.

He commanded the ring throughout the three rounds to record a unanimous points victory and safe passage into the two-time ABA Schoolboys champion's third final. But Wednesbury ABC's Jack Wood is out after a majority points loss despite a valiant effort against his nemesis Luke McCormack, from Birtley Boys ABC in Northumberland.

McCormack also put him out of the CYP national semi-finals last year and Wood was clearly keen to avenge that defeat after taking the fight to the England international.

Wood got straight on McCormack and forced him to counter-punch on the back foot.

But he struggled with the hand speed of his talented adversary, particularly as fatigue set in, and just missed out on points.

Beacon's triumph down to the teens

Tales from The Bratch

BEACON'S teenage brigade combined to lead the victory charge in their Staffs Clubs Premier Division clash at Wednesbury, writes Nick Elwell.

After winning the toss and inserting their hosts, three-wicket hauls from 17-year-old Tom Elwell (3-15) and 19-year-old Matt Briggs (3-42) helped Beacon hold Wednesbury to 171-9.

Wednesbury were indebted to Kulever Badhan's unbeaten 59 which held their innings together, Tahir Mohammed contributing 28.

Beacon were reduced to 52-3 in reply but Elwell and 19-year-old South African import James Baikoff then joined forces to guide the visitors home with an unbroken century stand. Baikoff took the lead role as he finished on 66 not out with Elwell unbeaten on 47.

Beacon's seconds were involved in a dramatic tie at home to Wednesbury. Luke Alexander took 3-31 as Wednesbury posted 171-7 with opener Daniel Slater making 69 and Christopher Pickering 45.

Tie

Skipper Martin Smith led the Beacon reply with 63 while Ed Stevenson chipped in with 27 to leave the hosts needing two to win from the final ball. But they had to settle for a tie due to a run-out going for the second run. Jon Forster rolled back the years as the thirds bagged a winning draw against Hammerwich.

Forster struck 111 out of Beacon's total of 191-9. Hammerwich were then restricted to 140-7 in reply with two wickets apiece for Anthony Hartwell and Callum Westwood.

Beacon suffered a double reverse in the Worcestershire Sunday League.

James Baikoff struck 61 and Jamie Lunn 28 as Beacon posted 198-8 from 40 overs against Stourbridge.

Stourbridge held their nerve to edge home with one ball to spare and six wickets in hand.

Beacon's seconds went down by 66 runs in the reverse fixture. Stourbridge rattled up 213-2 with Beacon ending on 147-9. Chris Burns top scored with 33 not out with Mike Hartwell and Jake Cartwright adding 32 and 31 respectively.

Heathens will be going full throttle in the cup

DUDLEY HEATHENS are targeting a big lead from their home Knockout Cup clash with Buxton as they try to expunge last season's heartache.

Dudley host the Hitmen at Monmore Green on Tuesday (7.30pm) with their thoughts still turning to last year's KO Cup final. The Heathens lost Byron Bekker to a broken leg in heat three of the first leg at Mildenhall, and lost 61-33.

A 51-37 success in the return proved to be of little consolation, and team boss Will Pottinger says the 2012 disappointment makes him even more determined to go one better.

Dudley will be at full strength for the tie with the return leg in Derbyshire on Sunday, June 23.

Heathens also go to Redcar next Thursday for a challenge match which is a welcome addition to the fixture list.

Pottinger said: "This is a big meeting for us on Tuesday. We will start as clear favourites, but we're not going to take anything for granted."

"We want a decent lead to take to Buxton for the return fixture next month. We got to the final last year and we need to match that."

"It was hurtful to lose the final last year, although not as much as it was to lose the league by a point (in the play-off final)!"

"But we have to get past Buxton and I want to see us do a good job on Tuesday to take the pressure off in the return."

Heathens were due to ride at home to King's Lynn in the National League two days ago and head to Sheffield tonight which means they have four meetings in a fortnight.

Pottinger said the fixtures would provide vital track time for the side.

"Especially for the four riders not involved in the Premier League – Max Clegg, Nathan Greaves, Dan Greenwood and Gareth Isherwood – it is going to be very useful," he said.

"It's also a chance to visit a new track (Sheffield) and take on some Premier League opposition, although they won't be fielding their full side."

"Then we've got Buxton in the KO Cup on Tuesday. We should definitely be right back up to speed by then, so we will be hoping to get a big win."

"Finally we have Redcar next Thursday which, like Sheffield is a good opportunity to ride a new track and get some more track time."

"We are hoping we can continue the good run we've had at the start of this season."

Shrews dismiss Himley for 135

Cricket

HIMLEY suffered their second defeat on the bounce when they went down by 74 runs to Shrewsbury in the Birmingham Premier League.

The Shropshire side scored 209-9 batting first, thanks to Rob Foster's 63. In response, Himley were dismissed for just 135, Nathan Round top-scoring with 34.

Kidderminster Victoria were pushed all the way by bottom of the table Walmley before prevailing by two wickets.

The hosts battled to 186-8 thanks to Shozair Ali's unbeaten 50 and, despite a bright start which saw them reach 49 without losing a wicket, Kidderminster were reliant on a fine 31 from Ben Cox to see them over the line.

West Bromwich Dartmouth cantered to an eight-wicket success at Wombourne.

In Division One, winless Old Hill's miserable start to the season continued as they crashed to a 103-run defeat at home to Kenilworth Warden.

Elliott Wilson took 4-48 for the hosts but an unbeaten 100 from Warwickshire's Tom Allin saw the visiting side to an impressive 271-9.

In reply, Dimitri Ratnayake top-scored with 45 but the rest of the home batting line-up were blown away for a disappointing 168.

Halesowen's good form in Division Two continued with a 36-run win away at Water Orton.

Jones falls at the first

BRIERLEY HILL darter Mark Jones fell at the first hurdle in Germany.

A tough draw paired him with world No.16 Terry Jenkins in the PDC's European Darts Open.

"Little Mon" took two legs but couldn't stop "the Bull" charging into the second round with a 6-2 win at the Maritim Hotel in Dusseldorf on Friday night.

Dutchman Michael van Gerwen was the overall winner, although he was taken to a deciding leg by Wolverhampton's Wayne Jones in round two. Van Gerwen fired 140, 140 and 180 before finishing his 41 on double top in an 11-darter.

Another season like this and they'll need a bigger table – players from Bush Athletic at their pub base

Bush hosts Andrew and Susan Price with the team's silverware

BUSH SPOT ON FOR DOUBLE TRIUMPH

BUSH ATHLETIC grabbed two trophies in under 48 hours – with each final going to grueling extra-time and a penalty shoot-out.

They took the Ray Turley Memorial Trophy on Friday night after a marathon clash with Pensnett United – even the shoot-out went to sudden death – and then beat Wackers in the Dudley Guest Hospital Cup on Sunday.

Bush's 6ft 6in keeper Mark Garvey was their hero on each occasion, taking man-of-the-match in both finals with a string of crucial saves from the penalty spot.

Bush Athletic 2
Pensnett United 1
(aet, full-time score 1-1,
Bush won 6-5 on penalties)

With a second cup final looming, this was hardly the game Bush needed.

Pensnett broke the deadlock on 33 minutes at the Dudley Sports ground when a quick break saw the ball played out to Alex Perry on the right wing. His cross was whipped across, just outside the six-yard box, and buried at the far post by Kyle Smith.

Ten minutes later, Bush levelled with a similar strike.

Quick

Again it was a quick break down the right and Adam Harris sent an inch-perfect cross to the far post for David Brown to score.

Both teams had their chances in the second half but there were no further goals.

On 69 minutes, Pensnett cramp victim Smith was replaced by Shaun Saunders and six minutes later Bush brought on Kieran Bennett for Lance Flavell.

After six minutes of extra-time, Bush had to replace Callum Martin (ankle) with the partly-fit Ian Guise.

Bush had to thank Garvey for a superb save two minutes before the interval when Saunders' effort looked destined for the net.

In the second period, Garvey again denied the suffering Saunders and with just three minutes left, Bennett shattered Pensnett hearts with a breakaway goal.

Yet Pensnett's Alex Perry equalised and there was yet another twist when Bush hit the post with virtually the game's last kick.

It was all-square at 3-3 after penalties and the teams were locked through sudden death until Pensnett missed and Bush converted their ninth spot-kick.

Bush Athletic 1 Wackers 1
(aet, full-time score 1-1,
Bush won 4-3 on penalties)

Just 41 hours after the epic final, Bush were up against the only team to take points off them in the season.

A tight first half at Tivendale FC was goalless but Wackers broke the deadlock in the second period only for Bush to equalise.

There were few opportunities in extra-time and once again it all came down to the dreaded penalty shoot-out.

Again Bush won through – this time inside the regulation five kicks – with Garvey making the vital save.

Euro gold success for England karate champs

TWO Dudley area karate stars have scooped five European gold medals between them.

Audun Daniels and Emma Bradley, of Fortknocks Kimura Shukokai, travelled with the SKF national karate team to Helsinki, Finland to compete in the KSI European karate championships.

Bradley, competing in her first international tournament, showed the benefits of hard work by adding to her recent national title. She took gold in the girls' 12-13 years individual kumite (fighting) event, beating a fellow England squad member in a closely-contested final.

She was also part of the winning 12-14 years team kata (forms) that struck gold.

Club instructor Daniels had a hugely impressive competition, taking three gold and a silver. He won the male individual heavy-weight 80-plus kg kumite event and the male individual kata.

Daniels was also part of the winning men's kumite team which won silver in the adult senior team kata event.

Both competitors are now looking forward to the world championships in South Africa next year.

All the trips are self-funded and both would welcome any sponsorship. Contact Daniels on 07903 954894.

Wembley walk for Louis, 9

A NINE-YEAR-OLD Rowley Regis boy is preparing to walk out at Wembley.

Louis Hinton will be one of the player escorts at the stadium when England face the Republic of Ireland for the first time since 1995 on Wednesday, May 29.

Hinton will tread the famous turf with the likes of Theo Walcott, Joe Hart and Wayne Rooney.

He won his spot after entering a national competition via the McDonald's Kickstart website.

"It will be amazing to walk out with the England players at Wembley," he said.

"I can't wait to tell all my friends what it was like."

Sir Geoff Hurst, McDonald's director of football, said: "Walking out onto the pitch at Wembley Stadium is an unforgettable experience."

"The atmosphere will be something else, as it always is when the home nations are playing against each other."

Hackett now looks ahead

STOURBRIDGE boss Gary Hackett is already turning to the new season as the Glassboys try to get over their play-off heartbreak.

Stourbridge went out of the Evo-Stik Southern Premier shoot-out at the semi-final stage, beaten 2-1 at home by Gosport Borough.

Hackett has arranged five pre-season friendlies – all away from home – on successive Saturdays with 3pm starts. They are:

July 13, Bromsgrove Sporting; July 20, Romulus; July 27, Evesham United; August 3, Halesowen Town; August 10, Solihull Moors.
